Lausche, Bender Lone Candidates For Seat In U. S. Senate

COLUMBUS (AP)—Ohio voters will choose between Republican Sen. George H. Bender and Democratic Gov. Frank J. Lausche in the Nov. 6 election race for U. S. senator.

Bender and Lausche were the only senatorial candidates to have filed nominating petitions by the 4 p. m. deadline yesterday.

They will be unopposed in the May 8 primary, thus assuring them of nomination.

They were among 40 candidates filing petitions with the secretary of state for 10 statewide offices. Petitions qualify candidates for places on primary election ballots.

In the race for nomination as governor, two Republicans and five Democrats are entered.

Atty. Gen. C. William O'Neill, 40, of Marietta, will contest Lt. Gov. John W. Brown, 42, for the Republican gubernatorial nomination. O'Neill is a onetime speaker of the Ohio House and Brown is a former mayor of Medina and state highway patrolman.

Vying for the Democratic nomination are:

Michael V. DiSalle, 48-year-old ex-Toledo mayor and former federal price administrator.

Oscar L. Fleckner, 46, Columbus, former state liquor director and Springfield city manager.

Robert W. Reider, 39, Port Clinton publisher and former state representative.

Frank X. Kryzan, 42, Youngstown mayor.

Judge John E. Sweeney, 58, of Cleveland Municipal Court, a former secretary of state and Ohio Liquor Board member.

Lausche, 60, has served as governor for five terms. He declined to run again in preference for the Senate post. He also has pledged himself as a "favorite son" presidential candidate, but is regarded as a "dark horse" contender.

Should Lausche get the Democratic nomination for President or vice president, the Democratic State Committee would nominate a replacement for him in the Senate race.

Bender, 59, narrowly defeated Democrat Sen. Thomas A. Burke of Cleveland. They were contesting for the last two years of the unexpired term of the late Republican Sen. Robert A. Taft. Burke served briefly as an interim senator by appointment from Lausche until Bender won the right to complete the term.

Bender is from Chagrin Falls and Lausche from Cleveland.

Here are the candidates for other statewide offices (X—denotes incumbent):

Lieutenant governor:

Republican — Tennyson Guyer, Findlay; Paul M. Herbert, Columbus; William Cody Kelly, Cincinnati; George V. Woodling, Rocky River; Democrat — John Taylor, Salem; R. Edward Tepe, Norwood.

Pieces Of Jet Discovered On District Farm

Forced Landing Made By Plane At Port Columbus

Six pieces from the tail section of a single-engine experimental jet plane were found Wednesday night on the Dunlap farm on Circleville Route 2, six miles west of here.

The test plane was from North American Aviation Corporation in Columbus. It flew over the county Wednesday afternoon and later made a forced landing at the firm's airstrip at Port Columbus.

The pilot was uninjured.

Two representatives of the aviation company were searching in Jackson Township today for other pieces of the plane, including "valuable instruments" lost when the plane flew over this area.

Several county residents reported they heard a loud explosion and their houses shook when the plane flew past between 3 and 4 p. m. Wednesday.

THE PIECES to the plane were not found until last night. Deputy sheriffs Walter Richards and Bob Hoover were called to the scene at about 8:30 p. m. when the fallen parts were discovered.

The biggest piece found was about 2-by-3 feet and weighed about 10 pounds. Total weight of the pieces was about 35 pounds.

Plaintiff, Lawyer Break Into Tears

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Both Samuel Glassman, 46, and his attorney broke into tears during the public accountant's divorce trial.

Judge Walter Odemar called a recess until Glassman and Atty. Bernard Cohen composed themselves. The attorney apologized, explaining he was "very close to the case."

When Mrs. Patsy Glassman, 35, attempted to break up her daughter's crush on a junior high school teacher she ended up by falling in love with the teacher herself. Glassman says his wife told him the teacher, Leroy Byers, 32, was "the light of my life."

21 Candidates File For County Races

Six Unopposed For Reelection; Eight Running For Commissioner

Twenty-one candidates filed petitions for 11 Pickaway County offices as the deadline for filing for the May 8 primary election passed at 4 p. m. Wednesday.

Six of the 11 office races will be uncontested, while 15 candidates are aspiring for the remaining five, according to a report released today by Mrs. James Trimmer, clerk of the Pickaway County Board of Elections.

In what promises to be the hottest race, eight persons are seeking the two commissioner seats up for election. Five of the eight are Democrats and the remainder are Republicans.

William J. Goode, a Democrat and chairman of the board of commissioners, and Lyman Penn, a Republican, both are seeking reelection.

* * *

THE OTHER six seeking a commissioner job are: William B. Johnson, (Dem.); L. L. Melvin (Dem.); Clyde E. Michel, (Dem.); Hewitt Cromley (Dem.); Charles T. Carter, (Rep.) and Wayne Hines, (Rep.).

A three-way race has developed for the unexpired term of county auditor.

Mrs. Verna O'Hara, appointed to the position left vacant by the death of Fred Tipton, is seeking the unexpired term on the Independent ticket.

Joe E. Brink, deputy registrar of motor vehicles, who was defeated by Tipton in 1954, is running for the office as a Democrat.

Lewis E. Cook, Circleville Chamber of Commerce secretary, is seeking the office as a Republican.

Charles H. Radcliff, (Dem.), who took office as sheriff in January, 1931, and who has continued in that office ever since, is a candidate for reelection.

He will be opposed by James Moorehead, also a Democrat.

* * *

IN THE only other contest, Ed Wallace, (Dem.), Pickaway County's present representative to the State General Assembly is seeking another term.

Robert W. Wood, (Rep.) also is seeking the position.

James H. Mowery, (Dem.) is seeking reelection to the Clerk of Common Pleas Court job, unopposed.

Also unopposed for reelection are:

Recorder — Florence T. Campbell, (Dem.)

Engineer — Henry T. McCrady, (Dem.).

Prosecuting Attorney — William Ammer, (Rep.).

Coroner — Dr. Ray Carroll, (Rep).

Treasurer — Robert G. Colville, (Dem.).

New Blizzard Socks Texas Plains Area

PLAINVIEW, Tex. (AP) — Trains and buses were stalled as a new blizzard dumped more snow yesterday and early today on the Panhandle-plains area, adding to the misery of last week's record-breaking snow.

Although the new snow was comparatively light, winds that ranged up to 40 miles an hour whipped up old snow and piled up drifts to block highways that had been laboriously opened.

National Guard trucks still patrol the streets and highways in this immediate area. Yesterday a school bus with 24 children became stuck 12 miles north of here, was freed by a National Guard truck, and then became stuck again.

A Fort Worth and Denver freight train stuck in a snow bank two miles east of Dimmitt and was covered by the blowing snow. A rescue train sent from Plainview got only two miles from the city limits before it too got stuck in the drifting, blowing snow.

All buses and cars that had become stuck were freed. However, both trains today remained mired in the snow drifts. The crew abandoned the train at Dimmitt but the crew of the second train slept in the caboose last night. A third train was to be sent from Lubbock today to free the two mired trains and a train with a snow plow was being sent in.

Bomber Missing

HALIFAX, N. S. (AP)—The U. S. Air Force kept up a search today for one of its patrol bombers, reported down in the North Atlantic with three men aboard. The plane, a B26, was en route from Keflavik, Iceland, to Goose Bay, Labrador.

Russia Irked By U. S. Use Of Balloons

Red Press Chieftain Says Idea Represents 'Brink Of War' Policy

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union today accused the United States of carrying out a "brink of war" policy in the release of weather balloons over Russian air space.

In a full-scale news conference at the Spiridonovka Palace, Foreign Ministry Press Chief Leonid Ilyichev declared that the Balloons carried apparatus which not only took meteorological data but aerial reconnaissance as well.

He declared the balloons constituted a menace to air navigation and ground inhabitants and added: "All such attempts by American military organs are an attempt to conduct a policy of 'to the brink of war' which has been condemned by peoples.'

The Soviet press chief was referring to a statement attributed to U. S. Secretary of State Dulles in a Life magazine article.

Ilyichev briefly reviewed Soviet protests but did not mention the fact that the United States handed its answer to the Soviets' latest protest yesterday.

* * *

THE UNITED States, responding to the Soviet protest, ordered a halt to the launching of U. S. weather balloons from West Germany and Turkey. Balloons there will be grounded pending a study of whether they have been flying over Russia.

Before taking this action, the U. S. government promised in a conciliatory note to keep the balloons from flying over Soviet ter-

Light Rain, Mist Blanketing Ohio

COLUMBUS (AP)—Light rain and mist blanketed most of Ohio today, but state highways, for the most part, were in normal condition. The state highway department reported scattered slippery spots in the area bounded by Port Clinton, Bucyrus, Wooster and Elyria.

The lower level of U.S. 52 one mile west of Portsmouth still was closed because of the high level of the Ohio River.

Ike's Immigration Proposal Getting Cautious Scrutiny

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower's proposals for immigration law changes that could double the number of quota immigrants faced today cautious scrutiny by an election-year Congress.

Without waiting to return to Washington from a Far Eastern trip, Rep. Walter (D-Pa), co-author of the present immigration law, denounced Eisenhower's recommendations.

Walter is chairman of the Judiciary subcommittee on immigration which will have the first official look at the proposal.

Sen. Watkins of Utah, senior Republican on the Senate Immigration subcommittee, introduced bills to carry out the recommendations, but without flatly endorsing them. He asked for 'sincere and fair consideration."

Some members of Congress spoke up for Eisenhower's recommendations; others criticized them on the ground they would not make fundamental changes in the existing McCarran-Walter Act.

The major disagreement, as always, was over the national origins quota system. The present law contains a formula based on the 1920 census. It sets quotas for immigrants from a number of countries according to the number of Americans whose families originated in those countries.

Critics say this is an undemocratic principle which favors Protestant northern Europeans.

In recent years, many quota numbers have gone unused in such countries as Britain, Germany and Ireland while in others the quotas cut off many who would like to come to this country. Italy and Greece, for example, could use many times their quotas and the Netherlands a substantially enlarged one.

Eisenhower did not propose scrapping the national originas system — although he suggested that Congress study alternatives—but he did propose modifications.

One is a shift from 1920 to 1950 as a base for the total immigration quota. This would raise it 65,000 over the present 154,657.

Another gain would come from a proposal to establish each year regional pools of left-over quotas from the year before. In practice, this would apply principally to Europe. For example, British quota spaces unused in 1956 might be used by Italians in 1957. Special skills and family connections in the United States would be the qualifications.

One more proposal would help especially anti - Communist refugees from Russia and the Russian-absorbed Baltic countries.

Proposal Calls For Unpaid Sewage Bill To Be Put On Tax Duplicate

Circleville property owners who fail to pay their sewage bill in the future may find the charges added to their tax duplicate, if a proposal due to come up on the May ballot is approved.

This is one of the sections included in a resolution passed by city council which calls for an increase in sewage rates. The issue is being certified to the board of elections for placement on the ballot.

Property owners, under the proposal, who do not pay their bill on or before the 10th day of the month in which it becomes due and payable will have a penalty of 10 percent added to the charges.

If the bill is not paid within 90 days, the proposal states, it will be turned over to the county auditor. The charges will then be placed on the tax duplicate, with penalties and interest added on, and collected the same as other real estate taxes.

* * *

IN CASE the bill is delinquent, the proposal calls for the city to have the right to shut off service until all back charges have been paid in full.

Under the proposal, money collected can only be used for existing facilities or for future expansion. However, the proposal states that any surplus of money which may occur cannot be used for the extension of the sewage system to serve unsewered areas.

Public utilities manager Ervin Leist explained to councilmen that city sewage rates have not been raised in 17 years. He said that the additional money is needed to bring the system up to present day standards.

Voters will get a chance to express their opinion on the proposed increase when they go to the polls in May. Although the proposed hike amounts to 60 percent, it will mean an increase from the present scale of 50 cents to a new rate of 80 cents per month for the average home owner.

Missing South Pole Plane Is Spotted

ANTARCTICA (AP)—An Operation Deepfreeze airplane missing since last Friday has been sighted from the air. All seven men aboard are "believed well."

Rear Adm. George J. Dufek, commander of the U.S. Navy's task force for the antarctic expedition, announced today the missing single-engined Otter had been sighted by a search plane.

Dufek said the craft was spotted on King Edward Peninsula east of the Rockefeller Mountains about 100 miles east of the main base at Little America V.

Blocked Crosswalk Fails To Halt Lady

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—A limousine stopped for a red light at a slushy intersection, blocking a crosswalk.

'Everything Just Lovely' For Lady Jailed By Lady

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Mrs. Tillie Hansen, 58, said today "everything is just lovely" in Milwaukee County Jail and there's a chance she may remain there until 1961.

Mrs. Hansen, a housewife, could walk out of her cell if she paid a $150 judgment obtained by Mrs. Alvin Harry 15 years ago. And she will also be set free in the event Mrs. Harry tires of paying the $2.30-a-day board bill for keeping Mrs. Hansen behind bars.

But Mrs. Harry said she is "willing to pay as long as Mrs. Hansen is willing to sit."

Mrs. Hansen was jailed Monday when Mrs. Harry resorted to the state's little-used "body execution" statute in a final step to collect the judgment. Mrs. Harry took out the judgment in hopes of settling a civil court suit which granted her damages of $150. In her suit, Mrs. Harry alleged Mrs. Hansen pushed her at a Parent Teachers Assn. meeting in 1941. Mrs. Hansen denied it.

Both Mrs. Hansen and Mrs. Harry contended the issue is now a "matter of principle."

Mrs. Hansen observed about a life in a cell, "Everything is just lovely here, wonderful food, nice people. I'm really relaxing for the first time in years."

The judgment, with interest and charges, has grown to $295.76, an amount Mrs. Hansen says she just does not have.

Mrs. Hansen could remain in jail until the judgment, which has a 20-year limitation, expires in 1961.

Eden Says Relations With America OK

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Eden, returning home today from his consultations with President Eisenhower in Washington, declared relations between the United States and Britain are better than ever.

The two governments have only one difference of opinion, he told reporters. That difference is in far East policy, specifically Nationalist Chinese occupation of the islands off the Chinese mainland.

The statement indicated Eisenhower had refused to budge before British suggestions that the Chinese Nationalists evacuate Quemoy and the other offshore islands.

Herter To Shun Reelection Bid

BOSTON (AP)—Gov. Christian A. Herter of Massachusetts announced yesterday "I am not a candidate for reelection."

But he declined to answer any questions about himself as a possible candidate on the Republican national ticket next fall.

Herter has been mentioned as a GOP possibility for the nomination for president in the event President Eisenhower retires. His name also has been mentioned as a possibility for vice president.

Officials Mum On Reply To Freshman Coed

Legal Action Filed By Second Woman Fails Before Federal Court

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP) — While there was no immediate official comment, reports circulated here today that the University of Alabama may soon relax its order ousting a Negro coed from its classes.

The New York Herald Tribune has quoted high university officials as saying a change in their exclusion order was in the offing. Officially, however, university officials were mum as the 48-hour period passed which the coed had given them to re-admit her to classes or face action in federal court.

In a direct federal court action today, a petition against the dean of the university was dismissed. He had refused to admit a second Negro coed on "morals" grounds. She has a divorce action pending.

But the coed who had been admitted and then told to leave, Autherine Lucy, was directed to stay away from the campus "until further notice." This order, university officials explained, was issued for safety reasons after disturbances on the campus Monday.

MISS LUCY has expressed determination to return to university classes even though a university spokesman said a mob was "trying to kill her" Monday.

Neither the 26-year-old Birmingham woman nor her attorney had received any communication from the university last night.

"PRESENT FROM AN INDIAN GIVER"

If you're an Indian Giver here are some hints. 1. Always wrap the Indian carefully so as not to damage headress or tomahawk. 2. Put sufficient postage on package (the average brave requires $6.25 for third class mail or $23.00 for air mail.) 3. Mark plain on the outside of the wrapping, "Fragile" "Please Feed" and "This end up". One the other hand, if you're an Indian Getter, buy yourself a Peace Pipe and get rid of your Davy Crockett hat before opening the package. Personally I think we all owe the Indian a debt we'll never be able to repay. When the Indians ran this country the women did all the work, there weren't any Taxes and nobody had to worry about what was going on in Pakistan.

New Blizzard Socks Texas Plains Area

PLAINVIEW, Tex. (AP) — Trains and buses were stalled as a new blizzard dumped more snow yesterday and early today on the Panhandle-plains area, adding to the misery of last week's record-breaking snow.

Although the new snow was comparatively light, winds that ranged up to 40 miles an hour whipped up old snow and piled up drifts to block highways that had been laboriously opened.

National Guard trucks still patrol the streets and highways in this immediate area. Yesterday a school bus with 24 children became stuck 12 miles north of here, was freed by a National Guard truck, and then became stuck again.

A Fort Worth and Denver freight train stuck in a snow bank two miles east of Dimmitt and was covered by the blowing snow. A rescue train sent from Plainview got only two miles from the city limits before it too got stuck in the drifting, blowing snow.

All buses and cars that had become stuck were freed. However, both trains today remained mired in the snow drifts. The crew abandoned the train at Dimmitt but the crew of the second train slept in the caboose last night. A third train was to be sent from Lubbock today to free the two mired trains and a train with a snow plow was being sent in.

Bomber Missing

HALIFAX, N. S. (AP)—The U. S. Air Force kept up a search today for one of its patrol bombers, reported down in the North Atlantic with three men aboard. The plane, a B26, was en route from Keflavik, Iceland, to Goose Bay, Labrador.

'Sweetheart Town' Ready For Workout

LOVELAND, Colo. (AP) — You'll probably be mailing a Valentine come next week.

And if you do, you might like to mail it care of this Northeastern Colorado town of 9,000, for Loveland is America's "sweetheart town."

Valentines traditionally are sent here to be stamped with an appropriate crimson seal and then remailed from the Loveland postoffice. The practice was begun in 1947. Last year more than 65,000 Valentines were remailed.

Prosecutor Acts Against Inlaw

SIDNEY, Neb. (AP)—County Attorney Pat Heaton Jr. prosecuted his brother-in-law, Ron Libsack, in court here yesterday.

He brought in Libsack for violation of a two-year probation handed out last year and Judge John Kuns sentenced Libsack to a year in the state reformatory on nine no-fund check counts.

Russia Irked By U. S. Use Of Balloons

Red Press Chieftain Says Idea Represents 'Brink Of War' Policy

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union today accused the United States of carrying out a "brink of war" policy in the release of weather balloons over Russian air space.

In a full-scale news conference at the Spiridonovka Palace, Foreign Ministry Press Chief Leonid Ilyichev declared that the Balloons carried apparatus which not only took meteorological data but aerial reconnaissance as well.

He declared the balloons constituted a menace to air navigation and ground inhabitants and added:

"All such attempts by American military organs are an attempt to conduct a policy of 'to the brink of war' which has been condemned by peoples.'

The Soviet press chief was referring to a statement attributed to U. S. Secretary of State Dulles in a Life magazine article.

Ilyichev briefly reviewed Soviet protests but did not mention the fact that the United States handed its answer to the Soviets' latest protest yesterday.

* * *

THE UNITED States, responding to the Soviet protest, ordered a halt to the launching of U. S. weather balloons from West Germany and Turkey. Balloons there will be grounded pending a study of whether they have been flying over Russia.

Before taking this action, the U. S. government promised in a conciliatory note to keep the balloons from flying over Soviet ter-

Light Rain, Mist Blanketing Ohio

COLUMBUS (AP)—Light rain and mist blanketed most of Ohio today, but state highways, for the most part, were in normal condition. The state highway department reported scattered slippery spots in the area bounded by Port Clinton, Bucyrus, Wooster and Elyria.

The lower level of U.S. 52 one mile west of Portsmouth still was closed because of the high level of the Ohio River.

'Everything Just Lovely' For Lady Jailed By Lady

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Mrs. Tillie Hansen, 58, said today "everything is just lovely" in Milwaukee County Jail and there's a chance she may remain there until 1961.

Mrs. Hansen, a housewife, could walk out of her cell if she paid a $150 judgment obtained by Mrs. Alvin Harry 15 years ago. And she will also be set free in the event Mrs. Harry tires of paying the $2.30-a-day board bill for keeping Mrs. Hansen behind bars.

But Mrs. Harry said she is "willing to pay as long as Mrs. Hansen is willing to sit."

Mrs. Hansen was jailed Monday when Mrs. Harry resorted to the state's little-used "body execution" statute in a final step to collect the judgment. Mrs. Harry took out the judgment in hopes of settling a civil court suit which granted her damages of $150. In her suit, Mrs. Harry alleged Mrs. Hansen pushed her at a Parent Teachers Assn. meeting in 1941. Mrs. Hansen denied it.

Both Mrs. Hansen and Mrs. Harry contended the issue is now a "matter of principle."

Mrs. Hansen observed about a life in a cell, "Everything is just lovely here, wonderful food, nice people. I'm really relaxing for the first time in years."

The judgment, with interest and charges, has grown to $295.76, an amount Mrs. Hansen says she just does not have.

Mrs. Hansen could remain in jail until the judgment, which has a 20-year limitation, expires in 1961.

Ike's Immigration Proposal Getting Cautious Scrutiny

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower's proposals for immigration law changes that could double the number of quota immigrants faced today cautious scrutiny by an election-year Congress.

Without waiting to return to Washington from a Far Eastern trip, Rep. Walter (D-Pa), co-author of the present immigration law, denounced Eisenhower's recommendations.

Walter is chairman of the Judiciary subcommittee on immigration which will have the first official look at the proposal.

Sen. Watkins of Utah, senior Republican on the Senate Immigration subcommittee, introduced bills to carry out the recommendations, but without flatly endorsing them. He asked for 'sincere and fair consideration."

Some members of Congress spoke up for Eisenhower's recommendations; others criticized them on the ground they would not make fundamental changes in the existing McCarran-Walter Act.

The major disagreement, as always, was over the national origins quota system. The present law contains a formula based on the 1920 census. It sets quotas for immigrants from a number of countries according to the number of Americans whose families originated in those countries.

Critics say this is an undemocratic principle which favors Protestant northern Europeans.

In recent years, many quota numbers have gone unused in such countries as Britain, Germany and Ireland while in others the quotas cut off many who would like to come to this country. Italy and Greece, for example, could use many times their quotas and the Netherlands a substantially enlarged one.

Eisenhower did not propose scrapping the national originas system — although he suggested that Congress study alternatives—but he did propose modifications.

One is a shift from 1920 to 1950 as a base for the total immigration quota. This would raise it 65,000 over the present 154,657.

Another gain would come from a proposal to establish each year regional pools of left-over quotas from the year before. In practice, this would apply principally to Europe. For example, British quota spaces unused in 1956 might be used by Italians in 1957. Special skills and family connections in the United States would be the qualifications.

One more proposal would help especially anti - Communist refugees from Russia and the Russian-absorbed Baltic countries.

Princess-To-Be Smiles Too Much

MONTE CARLO, Monaco (AP)—The Grace Kelly-Prince Rainier marriage is still two months off, but Monaco's postoffice is in a stew trying to get a new set of stamps ready for the event.

Plenty of pictures have been scanned, but all are smiling poses considered unsuitable for a state wedding stamp. A hurried call has gone to Hollywood for something a little more majestic.

TOKYO (AP)—The lower house of the Japanese Diet unanimously adopted a resolution today calling on the United States, Britain and Russia to stop atomic and hydrogen bomb tests.

Proposal Calls For Unpaid Sewage Bill To Be Put On Tax Duplicate

Circleville property owners who fail to pay their sewage bill in the future may find the charges added to their tax duplicate, if a proposal due to come up on the May ballot is approved.

This is one of the sections included in a resolution passed by city council which calls for an increase in sewage rates. The issue is being certified to the board of elections for placement on the ballot.

Property owners, under the proposal, who do not pay their bill on or before the 10th day of the month in which it becomes due and payable will have a penalty of 10 percent added to the charges.

If the bill is not paid within 90 days, the proposal states, it will be turned over to the county auditor. The charges will then be placed on the tax duplicate, with penalties and interest added on, and collected the same as other real estate taxes.

* * *

IN CASE the bill is delinquent, the proposal calls for the city to have the right to shut off service until all back charges have been paid in full.

Under the proposal, money collected can only be used for existing facilities or for future expansion. However, the proposal states that any surplus of money which may occur cannot be used for the extension of the sewage system to serve unsewered areas.

Public utilities manager Ervin Leist explained to councilmen that city sewage rates have not been raised in 17 years. He said that the additional money is needed to bring the system up to present day standards.

Voters will get a chance to express their opinion on the proposed increase when they go to the polls in May. Although the proposed hike amounts to 60 percent, it will mean an increase from the present scale of 50 cents to a new rate of 80 cents per month for the average home owner.

Missing South Pole Plane Is Spotted

ANTARCTICA (AP)—An Operation Deepfreeze airplane missing since last Friday has been sighted from the air. All seven men aboard are "believed well."

Rear Adm. George J. Dufek, commander of the U.S. Navy's task force for the antarctic expedition, announced today the missing single-engined Otter had been sighted by a search plane.

Dufek said the craft was spotted on King Edward Peninsula east of the Rockefeller Mountains about 100 miles east of the main base at Little America V.

Blocked Crosswalk Fails To Halt Lady

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—A limousine stopped for a red light at a slushy intersection, blocking a crosswalk.

A lady, waiting to cross the street, calmly opened the rear door of the limousine, stepped in, patted the driver on the back as she passed, opened the opposite door, stepped out, and continued on her way.

Officials Mum On Reply To Freshman Coed

Legal Action Filed By Second Woman Fails Before Federal Court

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP) — While there was no immediate official comment, reports circulated here today that the University of Alabama may soon relax its order ousting a Negro coed from its classes.

The New York Herald Tribune has quoted high university officials as saying a change in their exclusion order was in the offing. Officially, however, university officials were mum as the 48-hour period passed which the coed had given them to re-admit her to classes or face action in federal court.

In a direct federal court action today, a petition against the dean of the university was dismissed. He had refused to admit a second Negro coed on "morals" grounds. She has a divorce action pending.

But the coed who had been admitted and then told to leave, Autherine Lucy, was directed to stay away from the campus "until further notice." This order, university officials explained, was issued for safety reasons after disturbances on the campus Monday.

MISS LUCY has expressed determination to return to university classes even though a university spokesman said a mob was "trying to kill her" Monday.

Neither the 26-year-old Birmingham woman nor her attorney had received any communication from the university last night.

Miss Lucy attended her first classes last Friday after she was enrolled in obedience to a federal court order. Disorders beginning that night flared Monday.

The board of trustees said in a statement that Miss Lucy was ex-

Eden Says Relations With America OK

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Eden, returning home today from his consultations with President Eisenhower in Washington, declared relations between the United States and Britain are better than ever.

The two governments have only one difference of opinion, he told reporters. That difference is in far East policy, specifically Nationalist Chinese occupation of the islands off the Chinese mainland.

The statement indicated Eisenhower had refused to budge before British suggestions that the Chinese Nationalists evacuate Quemoy and the other offshore islands.

Herter To Shun Reelection Bid

BOSTON (AP)—Gov. Christian A. Herter of Massachusetts announced yesterday "I am not a candidate for reelection."

But he declined to answer any questions about himself as a possible candidate on the Republican national ticket next fall.

Herter has been mentioned as a GOP possibility for the nomination for president in the event President Eisenhower retires. His name also has been mentioned as a possibility for vice president.

Candidates Aplenty

CLEVELAND (AP) — Seeking the 18 nominations to the Ohio House of Representatives from Cuyahoga County are 106 Democrats including Marion Motley, former fullback of the Cleveland Browns. Republican candidates number only 28.

"PRESENT FROM AN INDIAN GIVER"

If you're an Indian Giver here are some hints. 1. Always wrap the Indian carefully so as not to damage headress or tomahawk. 2. Put sufficient postage on package (the average brave requires $6.25 for third class mail or $23.00 for air mail.) 3. Mark plain on the outside of the wrapping, "Fragile" "Please Feed" and "This end up". One the other hand, if you're an Indian Getter, buy yourself a Peace Pipe and get rid of your Davy Crockett hat before opening the package. Personally I think we all owe the Indian a debt we'll never be able to repay. When the Indians ran this country the women did all the work, there weren't any Taxes and nobody had to worry about what was going on in Pakistan.

JEFF BENNETT, assistant to University President O. C. Carmichael, reported to the governor's office yesterday that members of a mob were screaming, "Let's kill her," and were trying to open the car doors."

The car in which Miss Lucy was being driven across the campus by Bennett and Sarah Healy, dean of women, was spotted by members of the mob. Windows of the car were smashed by rocks but Bennett escaped injury.

"In my opinion those who were there to kill her weren't students" although students were in the crowd, said Bennett. He wouldn't try to identify the outsiders.

The telephone at Miss Lucy's Birmingham home rang both with calls from well-wishers and people making threats, she reported.

An offer of a scholarship to University of Copenhagen came from the Danish League of Tolerance, a society of Danish scientists and authors. She said:

"I told them my plans were to attend the University of Alabama but if I was unable to do so I would consider that."

She also has been invited to enroll at Arizona State College in Flagstaff.

Dr. Lacey Eastburn, president of Arizona State, wrote Miss Lucy's attorney yesterday telling him that Arizona colleges are open to Negro students and saying Miss Lucy would be "treated like anyone else" here.

The Flagstaff college has about one thousand students, of whom about a dozen are Negroes.

Turnpike Group Seeks To Secure Sleeping Quarters

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Ohio Turnpike Commission plans to aid its patrons in finding sleeping accommodations.

Placing of special signs along the 241-mile toll road and distribution at turnpike toll plazas of pamphlets listing motels and hotels in the vicinity of interchanges have been ordered.

Owners of motels or hotels wishing to have their establishments included in the commission's list must submit application agreeing not to discriminate against any person because of race or religion, charge no higher rates for rooms than those filed with the state fire marshal, maintain high standards of cleanliness and sanitation and not erect or maintain outdoor advertising along the turnpike route.

Senate Panel Seeking Data On Missiles

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Jackson (D-Wash) said today a congressional subcommittee he heads "will want to hear the views of Trevor Gardner" on what should be done to spur the Defense Department's missile program.

Gardner announced yesterday he had sent to President Eisenhower his resignation as assistant Air Force secretary for research and development.

Urging "a very highly accelerated program on both" intermediate-range and intercontinental missiles, Gardner said "an honest difference of opinion" had developed between him and his Pentagon superiors.

Of the long-range missile project, aimed at developing ballistic weapons capable of spanning oceans while carrying atomic warheads, Gardner said, "A crash program is badly needed."

As the Pentagon uses the words, a "crash program" is one aimed at achieving its goal in the shortest time, with cost a secondary consideration.

Gardner said he was quitting because of differences about the scope and importance of the project. He said he told Congress last year the Air Force was "short about 200 million dollars" in the money it should have for research.

Gardner declined a direct reply when asked if he thinks Russia is ahead of this country in development of either the 5,000-mile, intercontinental rocket or the 1,500-mile missile. But he did say, "I think we need a very highly accelerated program on both these missiles."

Ohio Ranks Fourth For Low Mortality

COLUMBUS (AP) — Ohio is rated fourth in the nation for low mortality rates among "full term" infants delivered in the state's nine osteopathic hospitals, a group of osteopaths reports.

A full term infant is one whose birth takes place after nine months of pregnancy.

Ohio's .51 per cent mortality rate for such births was bettered only in Illinois, Iowa and California, in that order, said Dr. Jerry O. Carr, Fort Worth, president of the American College of Osteopathic Obstetricians.

ritory. It also offered to tell the Russians about the balloon program's safety features. In addition, the note sought to enlist Soviet cooperation, asking the Russians to return any scientific instruments the balloons might have parachuted to Soviet soil.

Ilyichev declared that during January the Soviets captured "a great number of balloons launched by the United States" and that U. S. press reports stated 500 had been launched by the American military.

'Apart from the type of balloons already mentioned, the United States military have also launched balloons carrying leaflets and propaganda literature against the Soviet Union," he said.

(Propaganda balloons sent behind the Iron Curtain are launched by the Free Europe Committee, a private organization operating in West Germany.)

The news conference was the biggest here in recent months and it pointed up the fact the Soviets wished to make propaganda capital out of the apparatus.

Greenfield Man Asks Venue Change

TROY, Ohio (AP)—Cecil G. Maddy, 28, of Greenfield, asked Miami County Common Pleas Court Wednesday for a change of venue in his first degree murder trial, set to begin March 14.

Maddy's lawyers blamed newspaper publicity given to the case in asking that the trial be held in another county.

Maddy and Edward A. McMullen, 29, Frankfort, were indicted for the holdup slaying of Cleveland Chipley, Troy used furniture dealer, Dec. 27, 1954.

McMullen was convicted last week and given a life sentence. He is in county jail pending his appeal for a new trial.

Accused Reds See Hope In Jury Action

CLEVELAND (AP) — Hope for at least some acquittals rose today among 10 Smith Act trial defendants as a federal jury entered a sixth day of deliberations.

When the eight men and four women jurors were dismissed last night to return to their hotel, they had been considering the case for 45 hours since Friday.

Since last Saturday, they have not had any questions for judge Charles J. McNamee. That was seen by some as an indication they are divided over individuals rather than points of law.

One of the defendants, Joseph Brandt, 45, a loyalist veteran of the Spanish Civil War, said he considered the long deliberation "a good sign in our favor."

The 10 defendants all have admitted Communist party membership prior to their indictment on Nov. 9, 1953. They are charged with conspiring to teach and advocate overthrow of the U.S. government by force. Penalty for conviction is up to five years in prison and a $5,000 fine.

In 11 previous trials there has been only one acquittal by a jury. Seattle jurors freed a defendant who had repudiated the Communist party.

There have bene 88 convictions in the 11 previous trials. The only directed-verdict acquittals thus far have been two in New York and David Katz, 42, who was acquitted by McNamee here last month after presentation of evidence was completed in the present trial.

Boy Scout Roster Now 4,175,134

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Boy Scouts of America reported on their 46th anniversary yesterday they have a record membership of 4,175,134 boys and leaders.

Twelve explorer scouts from all parts of the nation joined Dr. Arthur A. Schuck, chief scout executive, in detailing the Boy Scouts' 1955 gains and in pledging support to the organization's nonpartisan get-out-the-vote campaign in next November's election.

Extension Unit Forming Two New 4-H Clubs

Pickaway County youths are invited to join the 4-H tractor and electric clubs now being organized under the auspices of the county extension office.

George Hamrick, associate county agent, said the two clubs are open to any boy or girl in the county. Youths between the ages of 14 and 21 who have access to a tractor are eligible for Tractor Club membership.

The only requirement for Electric Club membership is that the applicant be between the ages of 10 and 21.

Both clubs are designed to encourage the effective development of 4-H leadership, character and leadership, Hamrick said.

He stated that through the Tractor Club, members will be offered guidance and training essential to maintain and utilize power most intelligently and economically in their farm operations.

THE OTHER organization is being formed to encourage members to learn more about electricity and to properly use and care for electrical equipment. They are encouraged to pass on to others the knowledge they gather.

Both organizations have awards programs which start from the county level and go on up to the state and national levels.

Interested youths may get additional information about these clubs by calling the extension office.

Hunter, Manns Given Terms In Ohio Pen

Two men indicted by the special session of the Pickaway County grand jury were sentenced to the Ohio Penitentiary today.

Clarence Hunter was given a 1-3 year term by Common Pleas Judge William D. Radcliff for issuing a check with no account. A 1-20 year sentence was also meted out for a previous charge of forgery, for which Hunter had been placed on probation.

The check issuing offense took place only a week after Judge Radcliff placed Hunter on probation for the forgery charge.

Edward Manns received a 1-15 year term in the Ohio Pen for breaking and entering a building in the night season to commit larceny. An additional sentence of 1-7 years was given for grand larceny.

MANNS AND his nephew, Thomas Wright, pleaded guilty to entering a Monroe Township cabin and stealing rifles and ammunition. Wright, 19, was placed on three year's probation because it was his first offense; Manns previously served five years of a 1-15 year sentence in Mansfield Reformatory for burglary.

All sentences are to run concurrently.

'Conscience Fund' Enriched By $1

COLUMBUS (AP)—State Treasurer Roger W. Tracy has deposited one dollar in Ohio's "Conscience Fund."

He received a letter mailed from Michigan that read:

"A few years ago I took a few apples from an orchard at the Mt. Vernon State Hospital.

"This has bothered me so I wished to make it right so I sent one dollar to the hospital. They returned it to me saying they did not have a fund for that sort of thing, and that I should send it to you."

JEFF BENNETT, assistant to University President O. C. Carmichael, reported to the governor's office yesterday that members of a mob were screaming, "Let's kill her," and were trying to open the car doors."

The car in which Miss Lucy was being driven across the campus by Bennett and Sarah Healy, dean of women, was spotted by members of the mob. Windows of the car were smashed by rocks but Bennett escaped injury.

"In my opinion those who were there to kill her weren't students" although students were in the crowd, said Bennett. He wouldn't try to identify the outsiders.

The telephone at Miss Lucy's Birmingham home rang both with calls from well-wishers and people making threats, she reported.

An offer of a scholarship to University of Copenhagen came from the Danish League of Tolerance, a society of Danish scientists and authors. She said:

"I told them my plans were to attend the University of Alabama but if I was unable to do so I would consider that."

She also has been invited to enroll at Arizona State College in Flagstaff.

Dr. Lacey Eastburn, president of Arizona State, wrote Miss Lucy's attorney yesterday telling him that Arizona colleges are open to Negro students and saying Miss Lucy would be "treated like anyone else" here.

The Flagstaff college has about one thousand students, of whom about a dozen are Negroes.

Senate Panel Seeking Data On Missiles

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Jackson (D-Wash) said today a congressional subcommittee he heads "will want to hear the views of Trevor Gardner" on what should be done to spur the Defense Department's missile program.

Gardner announced yesterday he had sent to President Eisenhower his resignation as assistant Air Force secretary for research and development.

Urging "a very highly accelerated program on both" intermediate-range and intercontinental missiles, Gardner said "an honest difference of opinion" had developed between him and his Pentagon superiors.

Of the long-range missile project, aimed at developing ballistic weapons capable of spanning oceans while carrying atomic warheads, Gardner said, "A crash program is badly needed."

As the Pentagon uses the words, a "crash program" is one aimed at achieving its goal in the shortest time, with cost a secondary consideration.

Gardner said he was quitting because of differences about the scope and importance of the project. He said he told Congress last year the Air Force was "short about 200 million dollars" in the money it should have for research.

Gardner declined a direct reply when asked if he thinks Russia is ahead of this country in development of either the 5,000-mile, intercontinental rocket or the 1,500-mile missile. But he did say, "I think we need a very highly accelerated program on both these missiles."

Ohio Ranks Fourth For Low Mortality

COLUMBUS (AP) — Ohio is rated fourth in the nation for low mortality rates among "full term" infants delivered in the state's nine osteopathic hospitals, a group of osteopaths reports.

A full term infant is one whose birth takes place after nine months of pregnancy.

Ohio's .51 per cent mortality rate for such births was bettered only in Illinois, Iowa and California, in that order, said Dr. Jerry O. Carr, Fort Worth, president of the American College of Osteopathic Obstetricians.

ritory. It also offered to tell the Russians about the balloon program's safety features. In addition, the note sought to enlist Soviet cooperation, asking the Russians to return any scientific instruments the balloons might have parachuted to Soviet soil.

Ilyichev declared that during January the Soviets captured "a great number of balloons launched by the United States" and that U. S. press reports stated 500 had been launched by the American military.

'Apart from the type of balloons already mentioned, the United States military have also launched balloons carrying leaflets and propaganda literature against the Soviet Union," he said.

(Propaganda balloons sent behind the Iron Curtain are launched by the Free Europe Committee, a private organization operating in West Germany.)

The news conference was the biggest here in recent months and it pointed up the fact the Soviets wished to make propaganda capital out of the apparatus.

Greenfield Man Asks Venue Change

TROY, Ohio (AP)—Cecil G. Maddy, 28, of Greenfield, asked Miami County Common Pleas Court Wednesday for a change of venue in his first degree murder trial, set to begin March 14.

Maddy's lawyers blamed newspaper publicity given to the case in asking that the trial be held in another county.

Maddy and Edward A. McMullen, 29, Frankfort, were indicted for the holdup slaying of Cleveland Chipley, Troy used furniture dealer, Dec. 27, 1954.

McMullen was convicted last week and given a life sentence. He is in county jail pending his appeal for a new trial.

Accused Reds See Hope In Jury Action

CLEVELAND (AP) — Hope for at least some acquittals rose today among 10 Smith Act trial defendants as a federal jury entered a sixth day of deliberations.

When the eight men and four women jurors were dismissed last night to return to their hotel, they had been considering the case for 45 hours since Friday.

Since last Saturday, they have not had any questions for judge Charles J. McNamee. That was seen by some as an indication they are divided over individuals rather than points of law.

One of the defendants, Joseph Brandt, 45, a loyalist veteran of the Spanish Civil War, said he considered the long deliberation "a good sign in our favor."

The 10 defendants all have admitted Communist party membership prior to their indictment on Nov. 9, 1953. They are charged with conspiring to teach and advocate overthrow of the U.S. government by force. Penalty for conviction is up to five years in prison and a $5,000 fine.

In 11 previous trials there has been only one acquittal by a jury. Seattle jurors freed a defendant who had repudiated the Communist party.

There have bene 88 convictions in the 11 previous trials. The only directed-verdict acquittals thus far have been two in New York and David Katz, 42, who was acquitted by McNamee here last month after presentation of evidence was completed in the present trial.

Boy Scout Roster Now 4,175,134

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Boy Scouts of America reported on their 46th anniversary yesterday they have a record membership of 4,175,134 boys and leaders.

Twelve explorer scouts from all parts of the nation joined Dr. Arthur A. Schuck, chief scout executive, in detailing the Boy Scouts' 1955 gains and in pledging support to the organization's nonpartisan get-out-the-vote campaign in next November's election.

The Scouts plan to place 35 million hangers on doorknobs as last minute reminders to voters.

Ohio March Draft Call Set At 1034

COLUMBUS (AP) — A sharply increased induction call for March was announced today by the Ohio Selective Service System.

The March call is for 1,034 men, an increase from 380 this month. The March 1955 call was 701.

The March call is limited to registrants who are at least 21 years old on March 1, unless they are volunteers or delinquents.

The induction call for March by counties includes: Clinton 2, Fayette 2, Hocking 3, Pickaway 4, Van Wert 4.

World Today

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press
News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has displayed no unusual enthusiasm—in fact, almost none—for the move by Sen. Hennings (D-Mo) to find out if senators got political contributions in the natural gas dispute.

But the performance of the 52-year-old Hennings was unusual. It isn't clear why, with his eyes wide open, he walked into a buzz-saw.

In trying to get his investigation started he chose to lock horns with two of the best political pros in Congress, both Democrats: Senators Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the floor leader, and George of Georgia, the Senate's dean.

In this encounter Hennings came off second best.

For days senators on both sides of the natural gas bill—designed to take direct federal controls off gas producers' prices—complained big corporations were using tremendous pressure to influence their vote.

On one side, they said, were big oil companies which produce gas; on the other, big utility companies whose costs would rise if gas prices went up. Both sides were accused of spending a fortune to get the vote they wanted.

But no one said he had been offered money until Sen. Francis Case (R-SD) reported a stranger interested in his vote had thrown $2,500 into his re-election campaign fund. He said he refused the money.

The stranger later identified himself as John M. Neff, a Nebraska attorney who last year was registered with the State Legislature as an oil company lobbyist. Neff said he had given the money with no strings attached.

As long as the charges about lobbies had been vague the Senate showed no interest. It couldn't ignore Case's specific statements. This is what happened then:

On Monday, before the Senate passed the bill, Johnson proposed the Senate appoint a special four-man committee to investigate the Case matter, and only that.

Hennings, chairman of a Senate subcommittee on elections, said he'd go along with the idea of an investigation by a special committee but he wanted it to go into the circumstances under which "any senator" might have been offered contributions to influence his vote.

This opened the door to an investigation of any senator and of the political activities of the oil and utility companies. There wasn't any rush of senators to Hennings' support.

Johnson objected to linking the Case investigation with the kind of broad search Hennings urged. Johnson said "I have no desire to cover up anything" and added he thought the special committee ought to get to work on the Case matter in a hurry.

Johnson was backed up by the Republican leader, Sen. Knowland of California.

On Tuesday the Senate unanimously voted for the special committee. George was named chairman. It had hardly been appointed before Hennings said he wanted Case to appear before his committee at 2 p.m.

This could be interpreted as defiance of the Senate and its leadership. George promptly ordered Case to appear before his committee at 2 p.m.

This could be interpreted as defiance of the Senate and its leadership. George promptly ordered Case before his committee at 2 p.m. Case chose to go before George's group.

Then George boxed Hennings in by telling Case not to talk to anyone until he appeared again before the special committee Friday. Hennings backed down—but not all the way.

Wednesday he said his committee would wait to start a broad investigation until after George's committee had finished up the Case problem. Then, to add to the confusion, Hennings said he would step off his committee before it began its investigation.

Hennings is up for re-election this year and it is customary for a member of the elections subcommittee to step aside if he has a campaign of his own coming up.

AT THE American Heart association dinner in Chicago to open the 1956 drive, Dr. Paul Dudley White, President Eisenhower's heart specialist, tells a gathering, "Suddenly we have been attacked by one of the largest epidemics in medical history. . . . Diseases Of Heart Top Local Deaths

To Spur Campaign For Funds State Health Report Serves

The Ohio state health department reported today that heart ailments caused more detahs in Pickaway County last year than all other causes combined.

The report, although generally anticipated on the basis of figures from past years, gave strong impetus to the 1956 Heart Fund Drive in Pickaway County. Dr. Henry H. Swope is in charge of the local campaign, which will reach its local climax with a program of "Heart Sunday" activities on February 26.

Spokesmen for the district's share of the nationwide drive pointed out that the state health department announcement also underlined a warning by Dr. Paul D. White, President Eisenhower's heart specialist. The toll being taken by heart ailments, Dr. White declared, amounts to "one of the largest epidemics in medical history."

Across the nation last year, heart diseases accounted for 52.3 percent of total deaths from all causes. Both nationally and in this area so far this year, heart disease promises to continue its role as top killer when figures for 1956 are compiled.

* * *

DISEASES of the heart and circulatory system caused 105 deaths in Pickaway County last year, the report shows. Cancer took 46 lives, 56 died in accidents, pneumonia was responsible for five deaths, and tuberculosis was blamed officially for one death.

Local health officials said that last month there were 18 deaths in the county. An even dozen were caused by heart disease and circulatory system trouble.

Available figures from the state health department reveal that approximately 1,834 persons in Pickaway County suffer from these diseases.

The drive now in progress here is being directed by the Pickaway County Heart Council. Funds contributed will be used for additional research, education and community services.

Body Of New Baby Found Near Dayton

DAYTON (AP)—The body of a newborn 7-pound, 4-ounce baby girl was found in the Miami River yesterday. A coroner ruled the child's death a homicide, saying it lived only 10 minutes after birth due to hemorrhaging and lack of professional care.

County detectives released a 17-year-old girl who claimed under questioning the baby was not hers. Two boys found the body one half mile south of West Carrollton.

Northeast Ohio Dems Fight Lausche

CLEVELAND (AP)—Democrats in five Northeastern Ohio congressional districts are going to challege Gov. Frank J. Lausche's bid to be Ohio's favorite son candidate at the Democratic presidential nominating convention.

The opposition is centered in Cleveland, with Lausche's longtime foe, Ray T. Miller, as the rallying point, and in Canton, where William R. Thom, five times 16th District Congressman, has filed.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has displayed no unusual enthusiasm—in fact, almost none—for the move by Sen. Hennings (D-Mo) to find out if senators got political contributions in the natural gas dispute.

But the performance of the 52-year-old Hennings was unusual. It isn't clear why, with his eyes wide open, he walked into a buzz-saw.

In trying to get his investigation started he chose to lock horns with two of the best political pros in Congress, both Democrats: Senators Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the floor leader, and George of Georgia, the Senate's dean.

In this encounter Hennings came off second best.

For days senators on both sides of the natural gas bill—designed to take direct federal controls off gas producers' prices—complained big corporations were using tremendous pressure to influence their vote.

On one side, they said, were big oil companies which produce gas; on the other, big utility companies whose costs would rise if gas prices went up. Both sides were accused of spending a fortune to get the vote they wanted.

But no one said he had been offered money until Sen. Francis Case (R-SD) reported a stranger interested in his vote had thrown $2,500 into his re-election campaign fund. He said he refused the money.

The stranger later identified himself as John M. Neff, a Nebraska attorney who last year was registered with the State Legislature as an oil company lobbyist. Neff said he had given the money with no strings attached.

As long as the charges about lobbies had been vague the Senate showed no interest. It couldn't ignore Case's specific statements. This is what happened then:

On Monday, before the Senate passed the bill, Johnson proposed the Senate appoint a special four-man committee to investigate the Case matter, and only that.

Hennings, chairman of a Senate subcommittee on elections, said he'd go along with the idea of an investigation by a special committee but he wanted it to go into the circumstances under which "any senator" might have been offered contributions to influence his vote.

This opened the door to an investigation of any senator and of the political activities of the oil and utility companies. There wasn't any rush of senators to Hennings' support.

Johnson objected to linking the Case investigation with the kind of broad search Hennings urged. Johnson said "I have no desire to cover up anything" and added he thought the special committee ought to get to work on the Case matter in a hurry.

Johnson was backed up by the Republican leader, Sen. Knowland of California.

On Tuesday the Senate unanimously voted for the special committee. George was named chairman. It had hardly been appointed before Hennings said he wanted Case to appear before his committee at 2 p.m.

This could be interpreted as defiance of the Senate and its leadership. George promptly ordered Case to appear before his committee at 2 p.m.

Jet Age Brings Problems Along With Business

Manufacturers Amass Orders As Citizens Study Newest Trends

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) —The jet age—with its problems of noise, crowded airlanes, outdated airports, and the financing of 1¼ billion dollars worth of jet airliners — is a step nearer today.

While the British bemoan the loss of their once proud lead in jet transports, American plane makers now have firm orders for 188 of the new style speedy airliners and outstanding options for 35 more.

In this country the race has been between Boeing and Douglas. With Howard Hughes' order this week for eight jets for Trans World Airlines, Boeing now has orders for 83. Hughes says TWA is talking about 22 more, and this would bring Boeing to 105.

Douglas counts its orders at 105, and its options of 13 would make a total of 118. When all the options become firm orders, the American manufacturers will have 223 jet transports in the works.

Deliveries of the speedy craft—Los Angeles to New York in four hours and 15 minutes—are scheduled in volume between 1958 and 1961. And it is in that period that the airlines will have to find the 1¼ billion dollars that the planes and spare parts are expected to cost.

In addition to orders from most big American carriers now, the aircraft makers have orders from Air France, Sabena, and Belgian World Airlines.

Some of the money to pay for the 223 jets the manufacturers expect to turn out in the next few years will come from airline earnings (aided, in one sense, by government subsidies). But new capital will have to be sought, too. This could come from long-term loans from insurance companies, short - term loans from banks, or from new stock and bond issues.

The airlines hope to get their money back through operating savings. Jet builders contend their craft will produce much more revenue for the airlines because of bigger carrying capacity and more trips in the same period because of the higher speed.

On the ground is the problem of old airports which the jet age could make obsolete, and the need for the longer runways which the intercontinental jet airliners demand.

Some cities will find their air space still more crowded. Certain air centers already have trouble accomodating the growing number of planes hovering for a landing.

Land-bound citizens will be interested in the noise problem. Many a householder who has never got used to the noise of the pistol engine planes has noted that military jets are far more nerve-wracking.

Boeing engineers report progress in tackling the noise nuisance. They are testing a sound suppressor for their jets. It is a nozzle-like attachment for the rear of the jet engine. It converts the loud but low-pitched noise into high frequencies which the human ear doesn't register.

Further research is under way. Boeing has until December 1958 to work on the problem before delivering its first commercial jet, to Pan American Airways. Pan Am and Panagra have 20 Boeings on order and 29 Douglas jets. Eastern Air Lines has 18 jets on order and option on eight more. American Airlines has 30 jets coming and United Air Lines 30 also. Other airlines have smaller numbers coming.

Another angle the aircraft scientists are working on is to find some way to slow jets down before landing — one solution for the too-short runway problem.

If noise and inadequate airports are overcome by 1958, the speedy jets should be a delight for the air-minded traveller.

Conversation Proven 'Art' By Half-Hour Radio Program

NEW YORK (AP)—Do you ever grow bored with the gossip, babbling, monologuing and petty facts that make up, for most of us, that thing called conversation? To hear what it really can be in the way of exchange and interplay of wit and wisdom tune to Conversation on the NBC radio network of a Thursday evening.

If you think television has destroyed this most ancient form of communication, listen to Clifton Fadiman and his weekly guests—who tonight are novelist Jerome Weidman and comedian Henry Morgan. You'll take heart. You may even try indulging in a little conversation yourself.

Fadiman, a critic, editor, writer and master of ceremonies in a long line of radio and TV programs, was goaded into conversation in a small office the other day Conversationally he turns out to be a pacer; that is, he seems to feel he thinks better on the hoof while strolling from here to there.

"We're a very amiable people in America," he said. "We don't like to hurt each other. We feel that ideas have sharp edges and so we're not inclined to discuss ideas conversationally. On the other hand, we feel that gossip doesn't hurt anyone. You know, if somebody says, 'I wonder what that car was doing in Mrs. Jones' driveway all afternoon?' everybody feels that really nobody has been hurt

"By the same token, we feel that recitals of facts don't hurt anybody. But expression of ideas seems to be a way of asserting yourself—and we think that a little ill-mannered. Yet it's obvious that our minds are better than our talk indicates because, as a pepole, our judgments are of the highest level.

1955 Ohio Sales Hit All-Time High

COLUMBUS (AP)—Ohio State University's Bureau of Business Research reports that the state's 1955 retail sales climbed to a new all-time high, ending the year with a nine per cent gain over the 1954 total.

December sales also set a new record for a one-month period, the bureau said, with a six per cent gain over the same month in 1954.

Eighteen of the 19 kinds of business for which figures were available ended the year with increases over 1954. Motor vehicle dealers experienced the largest gain, 27 per cent. For the same period, heating and plumbing equipment dealers' sales showed a loss of 4 per cent.

Jet Age Brings Problems Along With Business

Manufacturers Amass Orders As Citizens Study Newest Trends

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) —The jet age—with its problems of noise, crowded airlanes, outdated airports, and the financing of 1¼ billion dollars worth of jet airliners — is a step nearer today.

While the British bemoan the loss of their once proud lead in jet transports, American plane makers now have firm orders for 188 of the new style speedy airliners and outstanding options for 35 more.

In this country the race has been between Boeing and Douglas. With Howard Hughes' order this week for eight jets for Trans World Airlines, Boeing now has orders for 83. Hughes says TWA is talking about 22 more, and this would bring Boeing to 105.

Douglas counts its orders at 105, and its options of 13 would make a total of 118. When all the options become firm orders, the American manufacturers will have 223 jet transports in the works.

Deliveries of the speedy craft—Los Angeles to New York in four hours and 15 minutes—are scheduled in volume between 1958 and 1961. And it is in that period that the airlines will have to find the 1¼ billion dollars that the planes and spare parts are expected to cost.

In addition to orders from most big American carriers now, the aircraft makers have orders from Air France, Sabena, and Belgian World Airlines.

Some of the money to pay for the 223 jets the manufacturers expect to turn out in the next few years will come from airline earnings (aided, in one sense, by government subsidies). But new capital will have to be sought, too. This could come from long-term loans from insurance companies, short - term loans from banks, or from new stock and bond issues.

The airlines hope to get their money back through operating savings. Jet builders contend their craft will produce much more revenue for the airlines because of bigger carrying capacity and more trips in the same period because of the higher speed.

On the ground is the problem of old airports which the jet age could make obsolete, and the need for the longer runways which the intercontinental jet airliners demand.

Some cities will find their air space still more crowded. Certain air centers already have trouble accomodating the growing number of planes hovering for a landing.

Land-bound citizens will be interested in the noise problem. Many a householder who has never got used to the noise of the pistol engine planes has noted that military jets are far more nerve-wracking.

Boeing engineers report progress in tackling the noise nuisance. They are testing a sound suppressor for their jets. It is a nozzle-like attachment for the rear of the jet engine. It converts the loud but low-pitched noise into high frequencies which the human ear doesn't register.

Further research is under way. Boeing has until December 1958 to work on the problem before delivering its first commercial jet, to Pan American Airways. Pan Am and Panagra have 20 Boeings on order and 29 Douglas jets. Eastern Air Lines has 18 jets on order and option on eight more. American Airlines has 30 jets coming and United Air Lines 30 also. Other airlines have smaller numbers coming.

Another angle the aircraft scientists are working on is to find some way to slow jets down before landing — one solution for the too-short runway problem.

If noise and inadequate airports are overcome by 1958, the speedy jets should be a delight for the air-minded traveller.

Conversation Proven 'Art' By Half-Hour Radio Program

NEW YORK (AP)—Do you ever grow bored with the gossip, babbling, monologuing and petty facts that make up, for most of us, that thing called conversation? To hear what it really can be in the way of exchange and interplay of wit and wisdom tune to Conversation on the NBC radio network of a Thursday evening.

If you think television has destroyed this most ancient form of communication, listen to Clifton Fadiman and his weekly guests—who tonight are novelist Jerome Weidman and comedian Henry Morgan. You'll take heart. You may even try indulging in a little conversation yourself.

Fadiman, a critic, editor, writer and master of ceremonies in a long line of radio and TV programs, was goaded into conversation in a small office the other day Conversationally he turns out to be a pacer; that is, he seems to feel he thinks better on the hoof while strolling from here to there.

"We're a very amiable people in America," he said. "We don't like to hurt each other. We feel that ideas have sharp edges and so we're not inclined to discuss ideas conversationally. On the other hand, we feel that gossip doesn't hurt anyone. You know, if somebody says, 'I wonder what that car was doing in Mrs. Jones' driveway all afternoon?' everybody feels that really nobody has been hurt

"By the same token, we feel that recitals of facts don't hurt anybody. But expression of ideas seems to be a way of asserting yourself—and we think that a little ill-mannered. Yet it's obvious that our minds are better than our talk indicates because, as a pepole, our judgments are of the highest level.

1955 Ohio Sales Hit All-Time High

COLUMBUS (AP)—Ohio State University's Bureau of Business Research reports that the state's 1955 retail sales climbed to a new all-time high, ending the year with a nine per cent gain over the 1954 total.

December sales also set a new record for a one-month period, the bureau said, with a six per cent gain over the same month in 1954.

Eighteen of the 19 kinds of business for which figures were available ended the year with increases over 1954. Motor vehicle dealers experienced the largest gain, 27 per cent. For the same period, heating and plumbing equipment dealers' sales showed a loss of 4 per cent.

September was recognized as "Better Breakfast Month". Evidently this month of morning nutritional tribute was not convincing or lasting, as we are having a repeated and lengthened trial. February and March have been designated for learning or re-learning the lasting habit of substantial breakfasts.

Research workers say that even among farm families, breakfast is becoming a hasty snack or a neglected meal. Every morning we owe a debt to ourselves which should be paid off by providing a breakfast that supplies from one-fourth to one-third of the food needed for the entire day.

Many dividends will be received if we "pay-off" in the morning by consuming a food from four or five of the seven basic food groups.

As the consumer food marketing specialist at Ohio State University puts it, "It is impossible to make up a menu for a perfect breakfast and say 'this is it' for everyone." However, it is possible to say that cereals are an important food group that is commonly included in the American shopping list and diet.

* * *

BREAKFAST CEREALS are available in many forms, under many brand names, and in many package sizes. They take only a small fraction of the family's budget, but they are excellent buys because of their convenience, ease of preparation, economy and nutrition.

Cereals are excellent sources of calories for energy, B vitamins, iron and phosphorus.

Many of our breakfast cereals are refined, in which the bran, germ and many of the vitamins and minerals are removed by the milling process. However, as we all go shopping we will find cereals that have these nutrients added or restored during the processing. The amounts vary between cereals. For complete information, we should read the label of each package.

The protein in cereal is incomplete and becomes more usable when served with an animal protein. For this reason milk, eggs or some other animal protein should be included along with the breakfast cereals.

Uncooked cereals give the most food value for the money invested. Ready-to-eat cereals cost more per serving than uncooked cereals. And, the individual serving packages will cost more per serving than the family sized packages.

* * *

THE ADDED service or convenience in the ready-to-eat packages, vitamin enriched or sugar-coated cereals, explains their added costs. But these services may be worth the extra cost to the homemaker depending on her food budget and family's needs and preferences.

A shopper can easily spend about 84 cents of a cereal dollar for processing and marketing services. These include assembling, sorting, grading, transporting, manufacturing, packaging, storing and selling. Approximately 16 cents goes to the farmer for the grain.

The baker gets a big "slice" out of each loaf of bread. After all — he not only bakes it, but also wraps, and delivers to the store.

The homemaker may use cereals in the family's lunch and dinner menus and as between-meal snacks. Most cookbooks give recipes using cereals in cookies, quick breads, candy, custard, meat and fish loaves, souffles and cereal pie crusts.

A pat of butter, melting slowly in hot cereal, gives a new and different flavor. Another "inspiration" or anticipating method is to stir in cut up prunes, dates, raisins, or nuts just before serving.

Wheat germ—the "spark of life" within the grain of wheat—is one of the richest sources of natural Vitamin B1. Since the body stores B1 for a short time only, fresh supplies of this important vitamin are needed daily.

What will the majority of breakfast P Q's (Personality Quotient) be when this better breakfast training session terminates? Are we all going shopping for better breakfasts?

Strike Idleness High During 1955

COLUMBUS (AP)—Strike idleness in Ohio reached the high point for 1955 in the last quarter of the year, the Ohio Department of Industrial Relations reports.

Idleness in that quarter was six and one-half times that of the same period in 1954, said Miss Margaret A. Mahoney, department director. She added that Ohio lost 1.1 million man-days of work time in the fourth quarter as compared with 160,000 man-days of work time in the fourth quarter as compared with 160,000 man-days in the first quarter, 620,000 in the second, and 790,000 in the third.

Of the 1.1 million man-days of idleness in the fourth period, 650,000 or 57 per cent resulted from the Westinghouse strike which began in mid-October.

Man's Managing Ability Studied

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—A business administration professor believes man's progress is not limited by his lack of inventiveness, but his ability to manage the things he invents.

Dr. W. W. Finlay of Antioch College, Yellow Springs, Ohio, told a management development institute that "man has a much greater capacity for inventing than for managing."

"The greatest single need in the field of human relations is people who can manage," Dr. Finlay told the University of Louisville's speed scientific school.

Piqua Seeks Own A-Power Reactor

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Atomic Energy Commission has received proposals from seven companies, cities and other groups for construction of small atomic power plants with government aid.

This would be part of a program under which the government is encouraging industry itself to take major steps in developing economic atomic power.

The proposals include: City of Piqua, Ohio — Organic moderated reactor, electrical capacity 12,500 kilowatts; design agent, Atomics International, North American Aviation, Inc., Downey, Calif.; completion date, 1960.

"CHANGING TIMES"

The Kiplinger Magazine says, "FINE TIME TO BUY A CAR. Rarely have car bargains been better than they are right now. Manufacturers overestimated the demand and produced hundreds of thousands of cars for which there are no waiting buyers. Most dealers have a surplus of new models. Car makers and dealers feel low about this dismal picture, naturally. But the customers able to take advantage of the buyer's market that now exists can feel happy." End of Quote.

This Kiplinger report is true. But we at Pickaway Motors aren't feeling "low" about it. We are glad to have plenty of cars — twenty four and all models. Also five trucks. So — here's what we propose — We are having a "Hats Off" sales jubilee. So to all customers who wish to take advantage of this "buyers market," we say, truthfully, come in now—buy now from our stock. You help us reduce stock and we will return the favor by giving you a "Buyer's Market deal." You will save $300 to $400 by purchasing that '56 Lifeguard Ford today at Pickaway Motors. Why wait 'til Spring? Heed Kiplinger — Buy that New Ford today at Pickaway Motors, 596 N. Court St. —ad.

Turnpike Builder Sues State Of Ohio

COLUMBUS (AP) — A Pittsburgh contractor who built the twin bridges that carry the Northern Ohio Turnpike over the Sandusky River has sued the Ohio Turnpike Commission for $452,538.

The contractor, George Vang, Inc., claims that amount plus interest in a civil suit on file in federal court here. The firm also wants a jury trial on all issues.

The $452,538 claim is broken into two parts. Vang says the commission has offered to pay the first part, amounting to $237,680, if Vang will release it from all claims and liabilities.

The remainder, $214,858, represents extra money Vang claims he had to spend getting the job done because the commission gave him "grossly inaccurate and misleading" information.

Merino are the best fine-wooled sheep.

Fear Of Ohio River Flood Subsiding

CINCINNATI (AP) — The U. S. Weather Bureau held out hope early today that there would not be enough rain in the next day or two to cause the Ohio River to reach or pass flood stage.

Earlier, the Weather Bureau had said rain appeared likely and that an inch or inch and a half of rainfall upstream would send the river to or beyond the 52-foot flood stage here.

Early today weather forecasters said it appeared that the rain clouds "will dry out pretty fast." They added that the rainfall in the next 24 to 36 hours would average less than an inch.

The river was at the 48 foot stage here Wednesday but was expected to go to 44 feet by Friday morning.

Strike Idleness High During 1955

COLUMBUS (AP)—Strike idleness in Ohio reached the high point for 1955 in the last quarter of the year, the Ohio Department of Industrial Relations reports.

Idleness in that quarter was six and one-half times that of the same period in 1954, said Miss Margaret A. Mahoney, department director. She added that Ohio lost 1.1 million man-days of work time in the fourth quarter as compared with 160,000 man-days of work time in the fourth quarter as compared with 160,000 man-days in the first quarter, 620,000 in the second, and 790,000 in the third.

Of the 1.1 million man-days of idleness in the fourth period, 650,000 or 57 per cent resulted from the Westinghouse strike which began in mid-October.

Man's Managing Ability Studied

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—A business administration professor believes man's progress is not limited by his lack of inventiveness, but his ability to manage the things he invents.

Dr. W. W. Finlay of Antioch College, Yellow Springs, Ohio, told a management development institute that "man has a much greater capacity for inventing than for managing."

"The greatest single need in the field of human relations is people who can manage," Dr. Finlay told the University of Louisville's speed scientific school.

Piqua Seeks Own A-Power Reactor

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Atomic Energy Commission has received proposals from seven companies, cities and other groups for construction of small atomic power plants with government aid.

This would be part of a program under which the government is encouraging industry itself to take major steps in developing economic atomic power.

The proposals include: City of Piqua, Ohio — Organic moderated reactor, electrical capacity 12,500 kilowatts; design agent, Atomics International, North American Aviation, Inc., Downey, Calif.; completion date, 1960.

"CHANGING TIMES"

The Kiplinger Magazine says, "FINE TIME TO BUY A CAR. Rarely have car bargains been better than they are right now. Manufacturers overestimated the demand and produced hundreds of thousands of cars for which there are no waiting buyers. Most dealers have a surplus of new models. Car makers and dealers feel low about this dismal picture, naturally. But the customers able to take advantage of the buyer's market that now exists can feel happy." End of Quote.

This Kiplinger report is true. But we at Pickaway Motors aren't feeling "low" about it. We are glad to have plenty of cars — twenty four and all models. Also five trucks. So — here's what we propose — We are having a "Hats Off" sales jubilee. So to all customers who wish to take advantage of this "buyers market," we say, truthfully, come in now—buy now from our stock. You help us reduce stock and we will return the favor by giving you a "Buyer's Market deal." You will save $300 to $400 by purchasing that '56 Lifeguard Ford today at Pickaway Motors. Why wait 'til Spring? Heed Kiplinger — Buy that New Ford today at Pickaway Motors, 596 N. Court St. —ad.

Turnpike Builder Sues State Of Ohio

COLUMBUS (AP) — A Pittsburgh contractor who built the twin brioges that carry the Northern Ohio Turnpike over the Sandusky River has sued the Ohio Turnpike Commission for $452,538.

The contractor, George Vang, Inc., claims that amount plus interest in a civil suit on file in federal court here. The firm also wants a jury trial on all issues.

The $452,538 claim is broken into two parts. Vang says the commission has offered to pay the first part, amounting to $237,680, if Vang will release it from all claims and liabilities.

The remainder, $214,858, represents extra money Vang claims he had to spend getting the job done because the commission gave him "grossly inaccurate and misleading" information.

Fear Of Ohio River Flood Subsiding

CINCINNATI (AP) — The U. S. Weather Bureau held out hope early today that there would not be enough rain in the next day or two to cause the Ohio River to reach or pass flood stage.

Earlier, the Weather Bureau had said rain appeared likely and that an inch or inch and a half of rainfall upstream would send the river to or beyond the 52-foot flood stage here.

Early today weather forecasters said it appeared that the rain clouds "will dry out pretty fast." They added that the rainfall in the next 24 to 36 hours would average less than an inch.

The river was at the 48 foot stage here Wednesday but was expected to go to 44 feet by Friday morning.

A SUPERSTITIOUS PEOPLE

ALTHOUGH the American people boast of their cultural advancement, the truth is there is still a touch of the pagan in many persons. While this is presumed to be the age of reason, people still play hunches and continue to nurse superstitions which have no basis of fact.

Americans spend the neat sum of $125 million a year having fortunes told. Ten million rabbits' feet are carried in pockets and handbags as omens of good luck. And many go so far as to believe that the one they own is the left hind foot of a rabbit killed in a graveyard at midnight.

Friday is presumed to be an unlucky day, and if it falls on the thirteenth of the month it is doubly so. Breaking a mirror brings seven years of misfortune, and the careless dolt who walks under a ladder is headed for disaster.

Oysters are feared to be poisonous unless eaten in a month containing the letter "R." Killing a spider invites the danger of rain; a howling dog forecasts death. A drowning person reviews his entire life during his last minute of existence. How that last has been ascertained piques the curiosity.

Millions of copies of dream books are sold. There is a tremendous demand for love potions. Horocopes, based on the stars, are followed religiously. Thirteen is unlucky, seven a lucky number. Four-leaf clover is an omen of good fortune because it was the one thing Eve took from the Garden of Eden, not forgetting the necessary fig leaves.

And so it goes.

FREE MOVEMENT BLOW

FREE ENTERPRISE is still somewhat free in this country, but occasional incidents arise to support the argument that it isn't free at all. A small leather goods manufacturer in New York City learned that when a managerial decision was completely blocked.

This purse manufacturer, unable to function satisfactorily, had made preparations to move his business to Frederick, Okla. But the purse industry in New York, including the crafts unions, had agreed upon an arbitrator to settle differences. The union which represented the moving firm appealed to him.

He ordered the business to move everything back from Oklahoma, reinstate all workers who had lost their jobs and give them their back pay.

Freedom of movement is one of the more desirable freedoms in America. In many nations there is no such freedom at all. This one decision does not end it by a long shot, but may be a disquieting straw in the wind. The power of organization is becoming more apparent. Carried out fully, that power finally could say not only that a business cannot move but a worker cannot either. Then America would cease to be free.

Color TV is making slow progress, but nothing has been heard recently of the proposal to broadcast odors.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

I see that Harry Truman, ex-President of the United States, does not wish to meet Richard Nixon, Vice President of the United States, lest upon such a meeting the aforesaid Truman be impelled not only to swear but to fight Nixon. There is a bit of age and poundage involved, Truman being 71 and Nixon 43.

Still, Harry Truman seems to be so vindictive in the matter that he might let loose a punch or two but on the whole, it would probably be a ridiculous performance, as such things are.

It would seem that somebody called Truman a traitor in 1954 and Truman thinks it was Nixon and he is very angry about it. If Truman licked Nixon in a fist-fight, what would it prove? Would it prove that Truman was right in his abrupt and cavalier dismissal of MacArthur? Or conversely, would it prove that he was wrong?

It would only establish that Harry Truman has a very bad temper, that his controls are weak and that it is astonishing that he was able to hold down the Presidency without blowing a gasket.

It would be more to our advantage if Harry Truman carefully read General Courtney Whitney's book on MacArthur, thus far the most documented work on the Truman fiasco in Korea. Then Harry Truman might answer the problems that Whitney raises, because the truth of the matter is that we lost the Korean War and that as a result the crucial battle of Dienbienphu was lost which altered the relationships of Europe and Asia and established a condition of permanent war.

If that is not a "hell of a fix," nothing is and Harry Truman cannot solve it by punching Richard Nixon. In fact, Truman and Nixon and you and I will be dead and buried before this particular ugliness in human history will be solved.

This little display of bad manners does no particular harm. In fact, it adds to the gaiety of a campaign year when nobody really wants to do much campaigning. So far, the Democrats have displayed more vitality than the Republicans because the party in power does not know what to do. Dr. White has gone to the Pacific to capture the heartbeat of a female whale and until he has accomplished this feat, the final decision on Eisenhower's life-tenacity cannot be decided.

Of course, Dr. White is only a reader of signs; he does not control the Book of Life. A man may be told that his heart can stand four years of the Presidency and then die of pneumonia caught while leaving an air-conditioned movie house. Who is to guarantee such things? If Ike is told that he is not strong enough to last another four years, he might last another 10 or 20 and die from old age. All this sitting around and waiting for Dr. White is like waiting for the doctor to come on his daily round of visits in the hospital. It is a break in the monotony of the day.

The Democrats are having a real good time of it. I am sorry that I am laid up or I should have gone to Carmine DeSapio's dinner when Truman and Harriman and Kefauver held forth in the absence of Stevenson.

All the Democrats say they want is a free-for-all convention which can only mean that all the preliminary work that Stevenson is doing will not show in delegates. Nobody is trying to stop Stevenson, but they are making it hard for him to get delegates and it is delegates that count.

CHAPTER TWENTY-FOUR

"I DID love Si. So much! I thought there never could be another man—but, oh, Alan, there is! I am in love again, completely, entirely!" Margaret's whole person—her glowing eyes, her eager lips, her trembling intensity—testified to her new love.

"Put Si's ring aside," said her brother deeply. "Put it in your box at the bank, and give it to Ann when she's eighteen; or to one of the boys if he picks the right girl."

"Yes!" said Margaret. "That's a good idea. Oh, Alan—do you think I'm terribly silly?"

"I don't think you're silly at all."

"I'm thirty-eight."

He laughed. "You're a sweet, warm woman. At any age, there's nothing finer on earth."

He rose, came to her and kissed her, "I love you, little sister," he said quietly, "because you are a full woman. Si was a lucky man to have had you and the children you gave him."

She clung to his shoulder. "Oh, Alan," she blurted, "I wish that you and Linda . . ."

He straightened, his dark face stern. "I wish so, too, Margaret. But as much as we want children, Linda is dead wrong in thinking our marriage is a failure because we haven't had them."

"Is that the trouble between you?" asked Margaret, her eyes round. "Ma'am says . . ."

"It's a matter between Linda and me."

"Yes, of course, Alan."

"She puts it to me in a way that I can't argue. She asks if I want children. Of course I say 'Yes.' Then she says she wants them, too—and if, after ten years, it seems that we'll not have them . . ." He snatched his hat, and slapped it against his thigh.

"She's dead wrong, Margaret! A man loves a woman, and he wants her in his arms—children, yes, if you are so blessed. But for herself, too, if you are not. Doesn't Linda know that?"

"You could tell her."

He sighed. "I don't seem able to talk to her any more—about anything."

"Of course you can talk to her, dear. She's probably waiting for you to do just that."

He smiled wryly, and shook his head. "I hope you're right," he said. "Good night, dear."

He got into his car, drove up the hill and sat thoughtfully there for a minute before getting out. He was deeply troubled. He should have talked to Margaret about Fern, but he'd not been able to bring himself to dim her rosy glow. Now, certainly, whatever else he could discuss with Linda, he must talk to her about Fern. Of course, he was also going to try to argue with her about her "conviction." If all that troubled Linda was the fact that she had given him no child, that trouble could be argued out of existence. And if there was something else . . .

* * *

When, at eight, the old folks rose to go to their rooms, Rupert Ernst gave every indication of an early departure. After they were gone, he stood before the fireplace, smoking, as if he waited only to put the end of his cigaret into the ashes, and then say good night.

But, instead, he turned and came over to where Linda sat in the corner of the settee, and seated himself beside her, very close. She shifted imperceptibly, but there was not room to move far. She could get up and go over to a chair, but that would seem an awkward and rude thing to do.

She felt her cheeks getting hot, and was angry at herself. Men had always admired Linda, and shown it. Other men showed admiration in their eyes and in their voices, but Rupert's black eyes, clinging to her face, her throat, her bosom—the tone of his voice, softening, throbbing, said that he worshiped this woman! Let's see, now . . . What was he saying?

Oh, yes! That she was a wonderful person.

"I sense your feeling of obligation to this family, but I also see you being trapped by their increasing demands upon you. You feel that your duty lies in this home, in this small town—that is why I say you are trapped, and urge you to free yourself. Now, don't say that you like doing all the things you do. I sense nothing of the dry and selfless martyr in you, my dear Linda."

"It isn't that—"

"Listen!" He turned a little so that his knee pressed against hers and he took both of her hands in his. Light from the lamp behind them glittered in his black eyes. "Do you ever do anything because it is what Linda wants? Be honest with me!"

"Why, of course, I do lots of things—"

"What are they?"

She laughed. "I suppose you mean that I arrange my life around Alan's hours. But any wife does that, Rupert."

"Except where the husband gives first consideration to the wife."

"Oh, but, look! Alan is a doctor . . ."

"And the devoted Laura Adamant is buffer enough for any man! I mean what I say, Linda, you are more slave than free. Your sister-in-law leaves her twins with you while she goes about her interests." His smile was suggestive. "Your crotchety father-in-law uses you; your tyrannical mother-in-law, your nymphomaniac aunt-by-marriage . . ."

"No, stop!" she begged. "They are all darlings. You can apply ugly names to almost anyone! But I'm not a slave."

"Remember—all slavery is not enforced by the whip."

She turned a troubled face to him. "You're not serious."

"I'm afraid I am, my dear. You see, I come in with fresh eyes, and survey your situation."

"But aren't all people slaves, in that sense? Aren't we all bound by love?"

"It is a matter of degree, my darling. I love and admire you for your unselfish sense of duty—but I love you even more than that, and so I urge you to rescue yourself before that self becomes completely smothered. Be yourself, Linda! Assert yourself! You have that obligation, too. Don't you?"

She put her hands to her cheeks, and regarded him with wide, dark eyes.

"That right to individuality is your democratic ideal, isn't it, Linda? Each man free, equal to another man, slave to none?"

"It sounds right," she said uncertainly.

"It is right! That is why I urge you to free yourself from this house, from this family—from the tyranny of this small-town aristocracy! Be yourself, my darling Linda! Your fine, your beautiful self!"

She would have laughed again, but with a swiftly ardent gesture, she found herself gathered up into Rupert's arms, his mouth hard upon hers, his embrace . . .

And—for the briefest of seconds—she responded.

In that same brief second, Alan came in through the back door, as was his practice when coming home late at night.

He saw that lights still burned in the small parlor, and took a step that way, another—and stopped.

Against the room's pale wall was a shadow, cast by the lamp behind the settee. It showed the sharply etched silhouette of a man and a woman, embracing, kissing.

He stood there, unable to move.

The embracing figures parted, and, at that same instant, Seretha's hand fell upon his elbow. He turned to his mother and moved, forcing her backward in the direction of her room. She resisted, her old eyes fierce and accusing.

"Do something!" she hissed at him. He put his hand over her mouth, and led her, still unwilling, to her own door and into her room. Then, and only then, he freed her.

She stood outraged, breathing hard. She was in dressing gown and slippers, her white hair in a braid. Her gray eyes were both hard and hot. "Aren't you going to do anything to them?" she gasped.

A very weary man, he leaned against the door which he had closed. "What could I say? What could I do?"

"Almost anything to stop that scandal!"

"Don't worry, Ma'am," he assured her. "You'll not have a scandal. I'll not lift my hand, nor speak one word. If Linda loves that man, why, she must have him." He turned, opened the door, and went out.

One of the reasons that a primitive tribe was so fond of Missionary Twiterton was the illustrated mail-order catalogues that reached him from time to time. One villager became so intrigued with an ad for a young lady's evening dress (No. 88762) that he dumped his entire savings on the desk of the post office clerk, and ordered No. 88762 forthwith.

In due course, the package arrived. The villager opened it in a tizzy of excitement, then gave a cry of dispair. "This is only the outside wrapping," he protested. "Where is the beautiful lady that was in it?"

Cost Of Kids Determined

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never now if he didn't open his mail:

That it costs a family with an annual income of $6,500 about $800 to bring a baby into the world, including the cigars the proud papa passes around.

That it costs $7,000 merely to feed a child during its first 18 years.

That in 1932 the Polish Olympic team ran up the 1860 steps in the 102-floor Empire State Building in 21 minutes flat. Russia, of course, will beat the record—just as soon as it builds a skyscraper that tall.

That the number of girl "office boys" has tripled since 1940.

That while industry prefers women office workers, men still held 354,000 of the 390,000 federal government's clerical posts as recently as 1950.

That Britain has lost its beef-eating tradition to America, where the average citizen ate 160 pounds during 1955.

That it took an industrial worker 49 minutes to earn the price of a pound of round steak here in 1929. Today he does it in half an hour.

But don't let your butcher know this — you have enough trouble with him already.

That A. H. Berwald, a 73-year-old pencil manufacturer, tests his pencil leads by leaning out his 10th floor office window and dropping them to the sidewalk. Incidentally, pencils will not only write under water—they work equally well when submerged in molasses. Try it and see.

That a pencil has been developed that will even write on your gums. Dentists use them.

That despite all the new labor-saving business machines that have been invented, there is still a shortage of 600,000 office workers in the United States.

That many modern roads in France follow the old routes of Napoleon's military campaigns.

That there is no tide in the Mediterranean. I have this on the authority of the French government tourist office, which didn't bother to explain why.

That Jane Froman, the singer, is allergic to ostrich feathers.

That opera star Blanche Thebom believes more American wives learn about culture from their husbands than vice versa. Now if a mere man said a thing like that he'd be denounced as an unbearable male prig.

That a recent comic book style treatment of "The Story of Jesus" sold half a million copies in two weeks, believed to be an all-time record for any "comic book."

That Hildegarde, veteran performer though she is, still recites the prayer of St. Francis of Assisi just before going out to face a new audience.

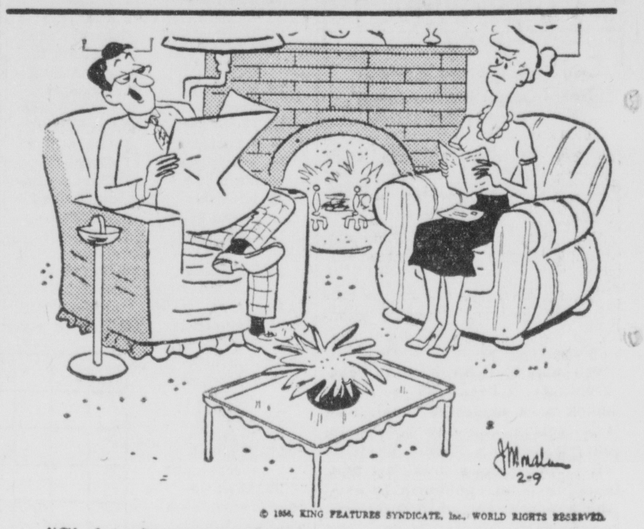

That while more men than women suffer from heart attacks, fewer men are hospitalized for mental disorders.

That few people can name offhand the only one of New York City's five boroughs that is actually on the mainland of the United States. It's the Bronx.

That a feeble-minded person can become insane, but a normal adult person, though his mental condition may deteriorate, never actually becomes "feeble-minded."

That the "coffee break," so popular with office workers today, originated in Turkey, where the first coffee house opened in 1554.

DIET AND HEALTH

You Can Help Child Overcome His Fears

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

IT'S perfectly natural for your baby to appear "nervous". So don't be alarmed if he is easily startled, sometimes sleeps fitfully, or begins crying for no apparent reason.

The tot may not be nervous, but just following natural instincts.

You, too, would jump if someone entered the room unexpectedly and you did not know it until you looked up. Think how a tiny baby feels about a sudden intrusion like this.

Pretty Trying

A baby's nervous system, after all, is immature, and it is pretty trying for him to encounter new experiences, sights and sounds almost daily.

You can help calm your youngster and get him accustomed to strange things by following a few relatively simple procedures.

You've got to try to anticipate his fears.

Loud noises, for example, will probably set a young tot wailing, especially at night. If you can explain that sudden "whoosh" of a jet plane overhead, and let him understand it won't harm him, he won't be afraid. Perhaps you can imitate the sound and make sort of a game out of it.

Frolicsome animals — dogs especially — will probably frighten him with their wild leaps.

If you know a friend has such an animal — unfortunately many of them do — explain to your tot before visiting this friend that the dog is going to be rough because that is his way of playing and showing affection. Then the meeting will hold less fear for the youngster, since he will know that the dog is merely being friendly.

Do not let your child become overtired from play, and do not frighten him with threats of calling a "bogey-man."

If he does become frightened, give him the comfort and love he needs when he turns to you for protection. And he will turn to you, you can be sure of that.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

Mrs. A. E. F.: My nine-year-old daughter is round-shouldered and she tries so hard to walk correctly. What would you advise?

Answer: It might be advisable for you to take your daughter to an orthopedic specialist who would advise the best treatment for round shoulders. This might involve a course of exercises, or perhaps the wearing of a supporting brace.

Teams of 14 nations scored no points in the Winter Olympic Games. Oh, well, it was a nice vacation, anyway.

Inidentally, it cost Italy, the host nation, $8,000,000 to stage the Winter Games. None of the competing skaters cut a fancier figure eight than that!

In Nigeria, according to Factographs, a bride who can read and write costs $200—an illiterate one only $80. At that, two C-notes seems a small enough price for a wife who is letter perfect.

A SUPERSTITIOUS PEOPLE

ALTHOUGH the American people boast of their cultural advancement, the truth is there is still a touch of the pagan in many persons. While this is presumed to be the age of reason, people still play hunches and continue to nurse superstitions which have no basis of fact.

Americans spend the neat sum of $125 million a year having fortunes told. Ten million rabbits' feet are carried in pockets and handbags as omens of good luck. And many go so far as to believe that the one they own is the left hind foot of a rabbit killed in a graveyard at midnight.

Friday is presumed to be an unlucky day, and if it falls on the thirteenth of the month it is doubly so. Breaking a mirror brings seven years of misfortune, and the careless dolt who walks under a ladder is headed for disaster.

Oysters are feared to be poisonous unless eaten in a month containing the letter "R." Killing a spider invites the danger of rain; a howling dog forecasts death. A drowning person reviews his entire life during his last minute of existence. How that last has been ascertained piques the curiosity.

Millions of copies of dream books are sold. There is a tremendous demand for love potions. Horocopes, based on the stars, are followed religiously. Thirteen is unlucky, seven a lucky number. Four-leaf clover is an omen of good fortune because it was the one thing Eve took from the Garden of Eden, not forgetting the necessary fig leaves.

And so it goes.

FREE MOVEMENT BLOW

FREE ENTERPRISE is still somewhat free in this country, but occasional incidents arise to support the argument that it isn't free at all. A small leather goods manufacturer in New York City learned that when a managerial decision was completely blocked.

This purse manufacturer, unable to function satisfactorily, had made preparations to move his business to Frederick, Okla. But the purse industry in New York, including the crafts unions, had agreed upon an arbitrator to settle differences. The union which represented the moving firm appealed to him.

He ordered the business to move everything back from Oklahoma, reinstate all workers who had lost their jobs and give them their back pay.

Freedom of movement is one of the more desirable freedoms in America. In many nations there is no such freedom at all. This one decision does not end it by a long shot, but may be a disquieting straw in the wind. The power of organization is becoming more apparent. Carried out fully, that power finally could say not only that a business cannot move but a worker cannot either. Then America would cease to be free.

Color TV is making slow progress, but nothing has been heard recently of the proposal to broadcast odors.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

I see that Harry Truman, ex-President of the United States, does not wish to meet Richard Nixon, Vice President of the United States, lest upon such a meeting the aforesaid Truman be impelled not only to swear but to fight Nixon. There is a bit of age and poundage involved, Truman being 71 and Nixon 43.

Still, Harry Truman seems to be so vindictive in the matter that he might let loose a punch or two but on the whole, it would probably be a ridiculous performance, as such things are.

It would seem that somebody called Truman a traitor in 1954 and Truman thinks it was Nixon and he is very angry about it. If Truman licked Nixon in a fist-fight, what would it prove? Would it prove that Truman was right in his abrupt and cavalier dismissal of MacArthur? Or conversely, would it prove that he was wrong?

It would only establish that Harry Truman has a very bad temper, that his controls are weak and that it is astonishing that he was able to hold down the Presidency without blowing a gasket.

It would be more to our advantage if Harry Truman carefully read General Courtney Whitney's book on MacArthur, thus far the most documented work on the Truman fiasco in Korea. Then Harry Truman might answer the problems that Whitney raises, because the truth of the matter is that we lost the Korean War and that as a result the crucial battle of Dienbienphu was lost which altered the relationships of Europe and Asia and established a condition of permanent war.

If that is not a "hell of a fix," nothing is and Harry Truman cannot solve it by punching Richard Nixon. In fact, Truman and Nixon and you and I will be dead and buried before this particular ugliness in human history will be solved.

This little display of bad manners does no particular harm. In fact, it adds to the gaiety of a campaign year when nobody really wants to do much campaigning. So far, the Democrats have displayed more vitality than the Republicans because the party in power does not know what to do. Dr. White has gone to the Pacific to capture the heartbeat of a female whale and until he has accomplished this feat, the final decision on Eisenhower's life-tenacity cannot be decided.

Of course, Dr. White is only a reader of signs; he does not control the Book of Life. A man may be told that his heart can stand four years of the Presidency and then die of pneumonia caught while leaving an air-conditioned movie house. Who is to guarantee such things? If Ike is told that he is not strong enough to last another four years, he might last another 10 or 20 and die from old age. All this sitting around and waiting for Dr. White is like waiting for the doctor to come on his daily round of visits in the hospital. It is a break in the monotony of the day.

The Democrats are having a real good time of it. I am sorry that I am laid up or I should have gone to Carmine DeSapio's dinner when Truman and Harriman and Kefauver held forth in the absence of Stevenson.

All the Democrats say they want is a free-for-all convention which can only mean that all the preliminary work that Stevenson is doing will not show in delegates. Nobody is trying to stop Stevenson, but they are making it hard for him to get delegates and it is delegates that count.

CHAPTER TWENTY-FOUR

"I DID love Si. So much! I thought there never could be another man—but, oh, Alan, there is! I am in love again, completely, entirely!" Margaret's whole person—her glowing eyes, her eager lips, her trembling intensity—testified to her new love.

"Put Si's ring aside," said her brother deeply. "Put it in your box at the bank, and give it to Ann when she's eighteen; or to one of the boys if he picks the right girl."

"Yes!" said Margaret. "That's a good idea. Oh, Alan—do you think I'm terribly silly?"

"I don't think you're silly at all."

"I'm thirty-eight."

He laughed. "You're a sweet, warm woman. At any age, there's nothing finer on earth."

He rose, came to her and kissed her, "I love you, little sister," he said quietly, "because you are a full woman. Si was a lucky man to have had you and the children you gave him."

She clung to his shoulder. "Oh, Alan," she blurted, "I wish that you and Linda . . ."

He straightened, his dark face stern. "I wish so, too, Margaret. But as much as we want children, Linda is dead wrong in thinking our marriage is a failure because we haven't had them."

"Is that the trouble between you?" asked Margaret, her eyes round. "Ma'am says . . ."

"It's a matter between Linda and me."

"Yes, of course, Alan."

"She puts it to me in a way that I can't argue. She asks if I want children. Of course I say 'Yes.' Then she says she wants them, too—and if, after ten years, it seems that we'll not have them . . ." He snatched his hat, and slapped it against his thigh.

"She's dead wrong, Margaret! A man loves a woman, and he wants her in his arms—children, yes, if you are so blessed. But for herself, too, if you are not. Doesn't Linda know that?"

"You could tell her."

He sighed. "I don't seem able to talk to her any more—about anything."

"Of course you can talk to her, dear. She's probably waiting for you to do just that."

He smiled wryly, and shook his head. "I hope you're right," he said. "Good night, dear."

He got into his car, drove up the hill and sat thoughtfully there for a minute before getting out. He was deeply troubled. He should have talked to Margaret about Fern, but he'd not been able to bring himself to dim her rosy glow. Now, certainly, whatever else he could discuss with Linda, he must talk to her about Fern. Of course, he was also going to try to argue with her about her "conviction." If all that troubled Linda was the fact that she had given him no child, that trouble could be argued out of existence. And if there was something else . . .

* * *

When, at eight, the old folks rose to go to their rooms, Rupert Ernst gave every indication of an early departure. After they were gone, he stood before the fireplace, smoking, as if he waited only to put the end of his cigaret into the ashes, and then say good night.

But, instead, he turned and came over to where Linda sat in the corner of the settee, and seated himself beside her, very close. She shifted imperceptibly, but there was not room to move far. She could get up and go over to a chair, but that would seem an awkward and rude thing to do.

She felt her cheeks getting hot, and was angry at herself. Men had always admired Linda, and shown it. Other men showed admiration in their eyes and in their voices, but Rupert's black eyes, clinging to her face, her throat, her bosom—the tone of his voice, softening, throbbing, said that he worshiped this woman! Let's see, now . . . What was he saying?

Oh, yes! That she was a wonderful person.

"I sense your feeling of obligation to this family, but I also see you being trapped by their increasing demands upon you. You feel that your duty lies in this home, in this small town—that is why I say you are trapped, and urge you to free yourself. Now, don't say that you like doing all the things you do. I sense nothing of the dry and selfless martyr in you, my dear Linda."

"It isn't that—"

"Listen!" He turned a little so that his knee pressed against hers and he took both of her hands in his. Light from the lamp behind them glittered in his black eyes. "Do you ever do anything because it is what Linda wants? Be honest with me!"

"Why, of course, I do lots of things—"

"What are they?"

She laughed. "I suppose you mean that I arrange my life around Alan's hours. But any wife does that, Rupert."

"Except where the husband gives first consideration to the wife."

"Oh, but, look! Alan is a doctor . . ."

"And the devoted Laura Adamant is buffer enough for any man! I mean what I say, Linda, you are more slave than free. Your sister-in-law leaves her twins with you while she goes about her interests." His smile was suggestive. "Your crotchety father-in-law uses you; your tyrannical mother-in-law, your nymphomaniac aunt-by-marriage . . ."

"No, stop!" she begged. "They are all darlings. You can apply ugly names to almost anyone! But I'm not a slave."

"Remember—all slavery is not enforced by the whip."

She turned a troubled face to him. "You're not serious."

"I'm afraid I am, my dear. You see, I come in with fresh eyes, and survey your situation."

"But aren't all people slaves, in that sense? Aren't we all bound by love?"

"It is a matter of degree, my darling. I love and admire you for your unselfish sense of duty—but I love you even more than that, and so I urge you to rescue yourself before that self becomes completely smothered. Be yourself, Linda! Assert yourself! You have that obligation, too. Don't you?"

She put her hands to her cheeks, and regarded him with wide, dark eyes.

"That right to individuality is your democratic ideal, isn't it, Linda? Each man free, equal to another man, slave to none?"

"It sounds right," she said uncertainly.

"It is right! That is why I urge you to free yourself from this house, from this family—from the tyranny of this small-town aristocracy! Be yourself, my darling Linda! Your fine, your beautiful self!"

She would have laughed again, but with a swiftly ardent gesture, she found herself gathered up into Rupert's arms, his mouth hard upon hers, his embrace . . .

And—for the briefest of seconds—she responded.

In that same brief second, Alan came in through the back door, as was his practice when coming home late at night.

He saw that lights still burned in the small parlor, and took a step that way, another—and stopped.

Against the room's pale wall was a shadow, cast by the lamp behind the settee. It showed the sharply etched silhouette of a man and a woman, embracing, kissing.

He stood there, unable to move.

The embracing figures parted, and, at that same instant, Seretha's hand fell upon his elbow. He turned to his mother and moved, forcing her backward in the direction of her room. She resisted, her old eyes fierce and accusing.

"Do something!" she hissed at him. He put his hand over her mouth, and led her, still unwilling, to her own door and into her room. Then, and only then, he freed her.

She stood outraged, breathing hard. She was in dressing gown and slippers, her white hair in a braid. Her gray eyes were both hard and hot. "Aren't you going to do anything to them?" she gasped.

A very weary man, he leaned against the door which he had closed. "What could I say? What could I do?"

"Almost anything to stop that scandal!"

"Don't worry, Ma'am," he assured her. "You'll not have a scandal. I'll not lift my hand, nor speak one word. If Linda loves that man, why, she must have him." He turned, opened the door, and went out.

One of the reasons that a primitive tribe was so fond of Missionary Twiterton was the illustrated mail-order catalogues that reached him from time to time. One villager became so intrigued with an ad for a young lady's evening dress (No. 88762) that he dumped his entire savings on the desk of the post office clerk, and ordered No. 88762 forthwith.

In due course, the package arrived. The villager opened it in a tizzy of excitement, then gave a cry of dispair. "This is only the outside wrapping," he protested. "Where is the beautiful lady that was in it?"

Cost Of Kids Determined

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never now if he didn't open his mail:

That it costs a family with an annual income of $6,500 about $800 to bring a baby into the world, including the cigars the proud papa passes around.

That it costs $7,000 merely to feed a child during its first 18 years.

That in 1932 the Polish Olympic team ran up the 1860 steps in the 102-floor Empire State Building in 21 minutes flat. Russia, of course, will beat the record—just as soon as it builds a skyscraper that tall.

That the number of girl "office boys" has tripled since 1940.

That while industry prefers women office workers, men still held 354,000 of the 390,000 federal government's clerical posts as recently as 1950.

That Britain has lost its beef-eating tradition to America, where the average citizen ate 160 pounds during 1955.

That it took an industrial worker 49 minutes to earn the price of a pound of round steak here in 1929. Today he does it in half an hour.

But don't let your butcher know this — you have enough trouble with him already.

That A. H. Berwald, a 73-year-old pencil manufacturer, tests his pencil leads by leaning out his 10th floor office window and dropping them to the sidewalk. Incidentally, pencils will not only write under water—they work equally well when submerged in molasses. Try it and see.

That a pencil has been developed that will even write on your gums. Dentists use them.

That despite all the new labor-saving business machines that have been invented, there is still a shortage of 600,000 office workers in the United States.

That many modern roads in France follow the old routes of Napoleon's military campaigns.

That there is no tide in the Mediterranean. I have this on the authority of the French government tourist office, which didn't bother to explain why.

That Jane Froman, the singer, is allergic to ostrich feathers.

That opera star Blanche Thebom believes more American wives learn about culture from their husbands than vice versa. Now if a mere man said a thing like that he'd be denounced as an unbearable male prig.

That a recent comic book style treatment of "The Story of Jesus" sold half a million copies in two weeks, believed to be an all-time record for any "comic book."

That Hildegarde, veteran performer though she is, still recites the prayer of St. Francis of Assisi just before going out to face a new audience.

That while more men than women suffer from heart attacks, fewer men are hospitalized for mental disorders.

That few people can name offhand the only one of New York City's five boroughs that is actually on the mainland of the United States. It's the Bronx.

That a feeble-minded person can become insane, but a normal adult person, though his mental condition may deteriorate, never actually becomes "feeble-minded."

That the "coffee break," so popular with office workers today, originated in Turkey, where the first coffee house opened in 1554.

DIET AND HEALTH

You Can Help Child Overcome His Fears

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

IT'S perfectly natural for your baby to appear "nervous". So don't be alarmed if he is easily startled, sometimes sleeps fitfully, or begins crying for no apparent reason.

The tot may not be nervous, but just following natural instincts.

You, too, would jump if someone entered the room unexpectedly and you did not know it until you looked up. Think how a tiny baby feels about a sudden intrusion like this.

Pretty Trying

A baby's nervous system, after all, is immature, and it is pretty trying for him to encounter new experiences, sights and sounds almost daily.

You can help calm your youngster and get him accustomed to strange things by following a few relatively simple procedures.

You've got to try to anticipate his fears.

Loud noises, for example, will probably set a young tot wailing, especially at night. If you can explain that sudden "whoosh" of a jet plane overhead, and let him understand it won't harm him, he won't be afraid. Perhaps you can imitate the sound and make sort of a game out of it.

Frolicsome animals — dogs especially — will probably frighten him with their wild leaps.

If you know a friend has such an animal — unfortunately many of them do — explain to your tot before visiting this friend that the dog is going to be rough because that is his way of playing and showing affection. Then the meeting will hold less fear for the youngster, since he will know that the dog is merely being friendly.

Do not let your child become overtired from play, and do not frighten him with threats of calling a "bogey-man."

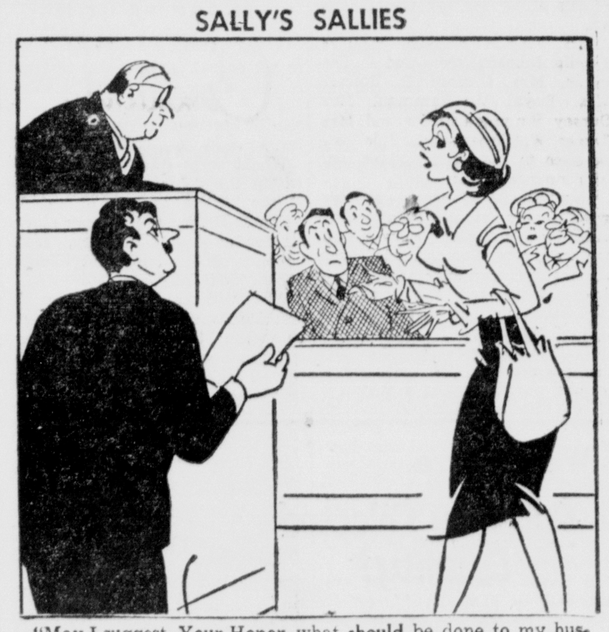

If he does become frightened, give him the comfort and love he needs when he turns to you for protection. And he will turn to you, you can be sure of that.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

Mrs. A. E. F.: My nine-year-old daughter is round-shouldered and she tries so hard to walk correctly. What would you advise?

Answer: It might be advisable for you to take your daughter to an orthopedic specialist who would advise the best treatment for round shoulders. This might involve a course of exercises, or perhaps the wearing of a supporting brace.

Sigma Phi Gamma Names 2 Delegates For Convention

Columbus Scene Of Two-Day Meet

Delegates were chosen to attend the 29th Province meeting when Beta Kappa Chapter of Sigma Phi Gamma met Wednesday evening in the IOOF Hall.

Mrs. Blen Stevenson, president, presided during the business session.

The Hawaiian theme will be carried out when the Province meeting is held in a Columbus hotel Feb. 25 and 26.

Elizabeth Jurney of Washington D. C., will be the presiding officer of the convention. She is the international organizer of Sigma Phi Gamma.

Delegates chosen from the Beta Kappa Chapter of Circleville to attend the convention are Miss Martha Barthelmas and Mrs. William Snyder. Miss Barbara Caskey will also attend as the Province by-law chairman.

Those present were: Mrs. Stevenson, Miss Caskey, Miss Barthelmas, Mrs. Snyder, Mrs. Robert Moon, Miss Margaret Goode, Mrs. Carl Rihl, Mrs. Jerald Easter, Mrs. Robert Walker, Miss Joan Kerr and Mrs. William Brown.

The meeting of Feb. 22 will be a social affair when sales tax stamps will be counted.

Hostesses for the meeting will be Mrs. Moon, Mrs. Snyder and Miss Barthelmas.

Flower Show Plans Discussed By Garden Club

The Deercreek Garden Club met in the parish house with 15 members and one guest, Mrs. Tom McAllister of Columbus, present.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Paul W. Counts, who presided.

Mrs. Counts appointed Mrs. Walter Wright and Mrs. Ted F. Corcoran to serve as a committee to investigate the purchasing of new chairs for the Parish House.

The Sorosis Club has made this one of its projects. The group will be assisted by other organizations of the community and the Deercreek Garden Club was named as one of the groups.

The club voted to contribute $5 to the "March of Dimes".

Plans were discussed for the flower show which will be held in the Williamsport Pavilion, June 7. Mrs. Bertha Porter is chairman of this affair and her co-chairmen are:

Mrs. John H. Dunlap, Jr., Mrs. Estella Johnson, Mrs. Ted F. Corcoran, Mrs. Clifford D. Bowser, Mrs. Royal V. Hamman, Mrs. Dorsey Bumgarner and Mrs. James W. Greenwood. This will be open to the public. Plans will be announced later.

Mrs. Bertha Porter was program leader for the evening. She used for her topic, "Flower Containers". Mrs. Porter made several beautiful arrangements from dry material and she suggested that each member start a collection of containers.

Mrs. Porter stressed the fact that harmony is the outstanding feature when selecting a container for the different variety of flowers.

During the social hour, refreshments were served by the hostesses: Mrs. Frank Carter, Mrs. Russell Wardell, Mrs. Charles Smiley, Mrs. Joe West and Mrs. H. W. Campbell.

The next meeting will be held in the parish house, at 8 p. m. Mar. 1. The program leader for the evening will be Mrs. Clifford D. Bowser. She will use for her illustrated lecture, "Birds We Will See On a Trip".

For the flower show, each member is asked to bring an arrangement of "Forced Blossoms".

The hostesses for the evening will be: Mrs. John Wolford, Mrs. Dorsey Bumgarner, Mrs. Archie Rawlinson and Mrs. Edward Schleich.

Supper Features Christian Home Society Meeting

Mrs. Geore Schleich was hostess for the covered-dish supper of the Christian Home Society when 21 members of the group met Tuesday in the Lutheran Church parish house.

Devotions were led by president, Mrs. Noah List.

Following the business session, Mrs. Lyle Davis conducted an impromptu program.

Readings were given by: Mrs. Davis, Mrs. VanMeter Hulse, Mrs. Harry Kern and Mrs. Ellis List.

Mrs. Paul Thompson presented a piano solo, and the men and women, each as a group, sang a song. A contest concluded the program.

The next meeting will be held March 6 with the Rev. and Mrs. Carl Zehner as host and hostess.

DAYTON, OHIO—"I am 27 years old and had been overweight for the past seven years. Nothing helped me until I discovered Rennel Concentrate," writes Mrs. O. J. Pugh, 1720 McLain, Dayton, O. "I have lost 48 lbs. and it's nice to have my friends tell me I look wonderful. I feel like a new woman."

Ask your druggist for 4 ounces of liquid RENNEL Concentrate. You'll never know a hungry moment while reducing with RENNEL.

Talks On Schools Feature Meeting Of Civic Club

County Superintendent, George D. McDowell, and Mr. Hartford Renick, who served as chairman of the Citizens Committee of Pickaway County, were guest speakers at the February meeting of the Women's Civic Club in Ashville.

The group met in the social room of the Lutheran Church.

Mr. Renick traced the history of education pointing out that in those countries where only certain classes were educated, the countries later fell. He explained the results of the survey, which showed the good and bad features of these schools.

Mr. McDowell explained some of the problems of the schools, and discussed some efforts in planning for the future.

During the business session, plans were made for the annual Spring style show to be held March 13. A donation of $10 was made to the March of Dimes.

The mother's march on polio, sponsored by the club and other volunteers, netted over $500. Mrs. George Gardner, chairman, thanked all those who helped with the soliciting.

Members purchased dresses as a part of the new spring wardrobe they will model at the May meeting.

'Indian American' Discussion Topic Of Evening Group

"Indian American" was the topic of the Evening Group of the First Presbyterian Church, when it met Wednesday evening in the church social rooms.

The business session was conducted by the chairman, Miss Jo Ann Brink.

The program was in charge of the chairman, Mrs. Charles Hart. Mrs. Hart gave an introduction of the American Indians and announced that the group will study this topic throughout the year.

Mrs. Robert Musser gave a talk on how the Indians originated. In her talk she told of the origin of Dartmouth College, which is Indian. Any American Indian who can pass the entrance exam may attend the college without paying tuition.

In conclusion she told of the home life of the Indians and how they make their living.

Mrs. Hart then conducted an Indian paper-weaving contest.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses for the evening; Mrs. Merle Turner and Mrs. Don Meyers.

Hostesses for the March meeting will be Mrs. Philip Hines, Mrs. Christina Graef and Mrs. Robert Pickens.

When you are baking popovers and take them from the oven, remove the hot bread immediately from the muffin cups so that their bottoms do not steam and soften.

Blend dry mustard with paprika, salt and pepper. Store in a small tightly covered jar. Add some of this spicy blend to flour to be used for coating meats or poultry.

Valentine Party Planned By PTA

Plans were made for a Valentine party at the High Street PTA meeting Tuesday afternoon. The meeting was conducted by the chairman, Mrs. Robert Hutzelman.

A report was made on the membership drive and the group voted to have a candy sale Thursday, Feb. 16.

Following the meeting, teachers, assisted by students, served tea to the parents.

Loyal Daughters Of EUB Church Holds Meeting

The Loyal Daughters Class of the First Evangelical United Brethren Church met in the Service Center for its monthly meeting.

Mrs. Cleon Webb presented devotions using the 13th Chapter of Corinthians as the Scripture.

The business meeting was conducted by the president, Mrs. Ronald Nau.

The program consisted of group singing and the following readings: "Consolation" by Mrs. Marie Goodman; "A Little Walk Around Yourself" by Mrs. Russell Hixon, "Time" by Miss Gladys Noggle and "Abraham Lincoln" by Mrs. Porter Martin.

A contest prepared by Mrs. Charles Ater was won by Mrs. Hixon.

Refreshments were served by the committee of: Mrs. Robert Arlede, Mrs. Kenneth Blue, Mrs. Arthur Brooks, Mrs. Madge Tomlinson and Mrs. Forrest Tomlinson to 20 members and guests.

The next meeting will be Mar. 6.

Saltcreek Grange Confers Degrees On Two Members

First and second degrees were conferred upon Mr. and Mrs. Dick Ballard when Saltcreek Valley Grange met in regular session with Worthy Master Donald DeLong in the chair.

During the meeting, a resolution of respect was read for Clayton E. Bowsher and members voted to donate $10 to the polio foundation.

Plans were made for the apple coffee cake contest scheduled for Mar. 7.

The Grange voted to sponsor the home talent play entitled 'The Roaring Twenties," a production of the Saltcreek Town and Country Club.

Because of the sales tax stamp counting, Mrs. Russell Miller, lecturer, didn't plan any program.

Candidates for the third and fourth degrees will receive them at the Logan Elm Grange meeting scheduled for Feb. 21.

A dance studio representative outlined plans for the dancing class which the grange hopes to sponsor. Another guest at the meeting was the master of Logan Elm Grange.

Two committees were appointed during the meeting. The Juvenile Grange committee members are: Mrs. Bob DeLong and Mrs. Paul Hartley.

The accident committee members appointed by the home economics chairman are: Mr. Randolph Wolfe and Mr. Bob DeLong. This comittee will report on all home accidents.

Flower Show Plans Discussed By Garden Club

The Deercreek Garden Club met in the parish house with 15 members and one guest, Mrs. Tom McAllister of Columbus, present.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Paul W. Counts, who presided.

Mrs. Counts appointed Mrs. Walter Wright and Mrs. Ted F. Corcoran to serve as a committee to investigate the purchasing of new chairs for the Parish House.

The Sorosis Club has made this one of its projects. The group will be assisted by other organizations of the community and the Deercreek Garden Club was named as one of the groups.

The club voted to contribute $5 to the "March of Dimes".

Plans were discussed for the flower show which will be held in the Williamsport Pavilion, June 7. Mrs. Bertha Porter is chairman of this affair and her co-chairmen are:

Mrs. John H. Dunlap, Jr., Mrs. Estella Johnson, Mrs. Ted F. Corcoran, Mrs. Clifford D. Bowser, Mrs. Royal V. Hamman, Mrs. Dorsey Bumgarner and Mrs. James W. Greenwood. This will be open to the public. Plans will be announced later.

Mrs. Bertha Porter was program leader for the evening. She used for her topic, "Flower Containers". Mrs. Porter made several beautiful arrangements from dry material and she suggested that each member start a collection of containers.

Mrs. Porter stressed the fact that harmony is the outstanding feature when selecting a container for the different variety of flowers.

During the social hour, refreshments were served by the hostesses: Mrs. Frank Carter, Mrs. Russell Wardell, Mrs. Charles Smiley, Mrs. Joe West and Mrs. H. W. Campbell.

The next meeting will be held in the parish house, at 8 p. m. Mar. 1. The program leader for the evening will be Mrs. Clifford D. Bowser. She will use for her illustrated lecture, "Birds We Will See On a Trip".

For the flower show, each member is asked to bring an arrangement of "Forced Blossoms".

The hostesses for the evening will be: Mrs. John Wolford, Mrs. Dorsey Bumgarner, Mrs. Archie Rawlinson and Mrs. Edward Schleich.

Supper Features Christian Home Society Meeting

Mrs. Geore Schleich was hostess for the covered-dish supper of the Christian Home Society when 21 members of the group met Tuesday in the Lutheran Church parish house.

Devotions were led by president, Mrs. Noah List.

Following the business session, Mrs. Lyle Davis conducted an impromptu program.

Readings were given by: Mrs. Davis, Mrs. VanMeter Hulse, Mrs. Harry Kern and Mrs. Ellis List.

Mrs. Paul Thompson presented a piano solo, and the men and women, each as a group, sang a song. A contest concluded the program.

The next meeting will be held March 6 with the Rev. and Mrs. Carl Zehner as host and hostess.

Talks On Schools Feature Meeting Of Civic Club

County Superintendent, George D. McDowell, and Mr. Hartford Renick, who served as chairman of the Citizens Committee of Pickaway County, were guest speakers at the February meeting of the Women's Civic Club in Ashville.

The group met in the social room of the Lutheran Church.

Mr. Renick traced the history of education pointing out that in those countries where only certain classes were educated, the countries later fell. He explained the results of the survey, which showed the good and bad features of these schools.

Mr. McDowell explained some of the problems of the schools, and discussed some efforts in planning for the future.

During the business session, plans were made for the annual Spring style show to be held March 13. A donation of $10 was made to the March of Dimes.

The mother's march on polio, sponsored by the club and other volunteers, netted over $500. Mrs. George Gardner, chairman, thanked all those who helped with the soliciting.

Members purchased dresses as a part of the new spring wardrobe they will model at the May meeting.

"Mary Haworth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: Some months ago my husband brought home to dinner a man who had been influential in getting him his present job—at a much bigger salary than we'd been accustomed to. Later we met his wife; and thereafter we became a frequent foursome—the evenings usually ending with a late card game at one house or the other.

My husband Joe has always been a cutup with women, much to my embarrassment at times; and Jane's husband Dan turned out to be like him on this score. Until recently, Jane and I had been able to handle the situation successfully, even though it was increasingly evident that our husbands had in mind to make a conquest of the other's wife.

Both Jane and I permitted and participated in a certain amount of flirting (to put it politely); but as this was all in the presence of the foursome, with the tacit consent of all concerned, we didn't anticipate anything catastrophic. Well, unfortunately, things went too far; and I for one am unable to treat it lightly. I find that of the four of us, I seem to be the only one voicing regret.

Husband Going Downhill

My husband is furious at my distress, calling me a wet blanket and other names that mean killjoy. He wants to continue seeing the other couple; and in fact we are invited out with them again next week. Joe insists that due to his business exchange with Dan, he doesn't want to make him offended. He claims that everything will iron out satisfactorily if matters take their own course.

I want to regain my self-respect. I love my husband and I want to guard against a relapse into misbehavior. I would also like to keep this couple as friends; but do you think it is possible after what happened?

V. R.

DEAR V. R.: I notice you write from a town that for decades has been known as a turbulent center of conjugal instability and infidelity; and sexual perverseness and promiscuity. And your recital indicates that your husband and your marriage have become infected with the regional taint of moral evil—which begins in the mind and imagination. And that in the other couple you met the devil's accomplices—who were also germ carriers of corruption.

As matters stand now, after the foursome has offended against human decency, so explicitly that none can deny wrong doing, you alone are showing symptoms of being more nearly healthy than depraved, despite your mistake. This is evident in your candid sentiments of bitter regret; and in your shocked concern to take measures, at once, to safeguard against relapse, and thus start to rebuild self-respect.

Your sharply repentant and newly defensive attitude is intelligently realistic. It is in line with bedrock social sanity. And as you value mental health and general well being, and the ability to distinguish between right and wrong, you had better stick to your dear-bought convictions, despite any efforts of your husband (and perchance the other couple) to assuage your misgivings and lure you back into the former routine of temptations.

Man Is Blind

Your husband's angry impatience with your sorrowful stock-taking gives the measure of his weak demoralization in the circumstances. He isn't ready to behave responsibly. But he is on edge with morbid anxiety and nervous tension, as he wrestles with dark impulses, diffuse guilt feelings, an undertow of shame, etc., and plugs for the course of least resistance.

As you haven't lost your bearings entirely, whereas Joe is blinded momentarily, you simply can't afford to let him lead you by the nose through this crisis. I believe you should decline absolutely to associate further with the other couple, on the previous basis of cronyism. If Joe wishes to maintain a whited-sepulcher friendship with Dan, that's a problem for his conscience.

As an antidote to the evil thinking that has led you astray, read 'The Secret of Happiness" (Doubleday), by Billy Graham—a brilliantly light-filled book.

M. H.

Mary Haworth counsels through her column, not by mail or personal interview. Write to her in care of this newspaper.

Vacationing Ohioan Dies In Mexico

ACAPULCO, Mexico (AP)—Charles Elliott Blakeman, 31, of Lima, Ohio, died suddenly here Wednesday.

Officials were told Blackeman dropped dead while wading in knee-deep water. An autopsy is planned.

Blakeman, said to be a bus driver, was vacationing here with his wife and two sons.

Church Lottery Winnings Taxable

WASHINGTON (AP)—Taxes must be paid on prizes awarded at church bazaar drawings, the U. S. Tax Court ruled.

"If the plan or scheme falls within the definition of a lottery, it is not rendered something else because it is conducted for a charitable or religious purpose," the court said.

"And the recipient of a lottery prize does not receive tax-free income because the sponsors conducted the lottery for a worthy purpose."

Lima TB Hospital Director Selected

LIMA, Ohio (AP) — The board of trustees of the Lima District Tuberculosis Hospital has announced appointment of Dr. E. L. Steinkopff as medical director at an annual salary of $10,000.

Dr. Steinkopff, from Janesville, Wis., replaces Dr. R. Fred Broach, who resigned to take a position at Bluffton, Ind.

Dr. Steinkopff, who assumes his new duties March 19, will be the seventh medical director at the hospital since 1951. It serves Allen, Auglaize, Mercer, Shelby and Van Wert counties.

Technician Union Pickets Bob Hope

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Assn. of Broadcast Employes and Technicians picketed NBC here Tuesday night during the Bob Hope television show.

Harold Byers, president of the union's metropolitan New York local, said the pickets were in protests against Hope's program. The union is on strike against station KOA-TV, Denver, in which Hope is a stockholder.

There was no effort by union employes of NBC to keep the program off the air. The union has a contract with the network.

College Debaters Eye Wage Issue

KENT, Ohio (AP)—A guaranteed annual wage will be the topic for the 14th annual Buckeye debate tournament to be held Saturday at Kent State University. Teams from 21 colleges and universities are expected.

"Resolved, that the non-agricultural industries of the United States should guarantee their employes an annual wage," is the proposition.

In last year's tournament, Heidelberg College and Central Michigan tied for first place.

Weekly Food Review

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

You'll find a good range of meats available at special prices in your food markets this weekend, but pork appears to offer the best value for your money.

Pork prices went up rather sharply at wholesale recently, but now they've come down again. Many stores are cutting prices on some pork items this week and expect to reduce others next week.

A large chain, for instance, is shaving pork chop prices by four to six cents a pound in some areas.

In the beef line there will be special prices here and there on prime ribs and sirloin and round steaks. Pot raost will be featured rather widely.

Frying chickens will sell for about the same as a week ago in most places. Egg and butter prices are stable.

The National Assn. of Food Chains is featuring beef and veal in the coming week as "big supply-best buy" items.

The very best buys in vegetables, produce men say, are potatoes, onions, canadian turnips and iceberg lettuce.

There are few good beans around, and eggplant shows a wide range in price and quality.

Railroad Rate Boost Hearing Delayed Month

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The state utilities commission has continued until March 20 a case in which railroads seek to boost Ohio freight charges seven per cent.

Groups opposed to the increase asked more time to prepare arguments and the commission complied, following a hearing.

Witnesses representing railroads operating in Ohio had asked the boost effective Feb. 25. They said money could be refunded if the commission later reduced the increase.

The railroads claim that unless they can charge higher rates their plan to buy many new freight cars and locomotives will be slowed down and the public will suffer through poorer service.

Four cities, Cleveland, Youngstown, Toledo and Shelby, are fighting the increase along with coal, agriculture, grain, electric, industrial limestone, greenhouse and other interests.

West Hemisphere Top Peak Noted

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP)—A Chilean army mountain climbing expedition says Ojos del Salado (Salt Springs Peak) is the tallest mountain in the Western Hemisphere.

The expedition, which scaled the peak on the Argentine-Chilean border reported it rises 23,573 feet above sea level. It had previously been listed at 22,539.

Aconcagua, another Andean Peak—23,035 feet—had been considered the highest in the Americas.

"Mary Haworth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: Some months ago my husband brought home to dinner a man who had been influential in getting him his present job—at a much bigger salary than we'd been accustomed to. Later we met his wife; and thereafter we became a frequent foursome—the evenings usually ending with a late card game at one house or the other.

My husband Joe has always been a cutup with women, much to my embarrassment at times; and Jane's husband Dan turned out to be like him on this score. Until recently, Jane and I had been able to handle the situation successfully, even though it was increasingly evident that our husbands had in mind to make a conquest of the other's wife.

Both Jane and I permitted and participated in a certain amount of flirting (to put it politely); but as this was all in the presence of the foursome, with the tacit consent of all concerned, we didn't anticipate anything catastrophic. Well, unfortunately, things went too far; and I for one am unable to treat it lightly. I find that of the four of us, I seem to be the only one voicing regret.

Husband Going Downhill

My husband is furious at my distress, calling me a wet blanket and other names that mean killjoy. He wants to continue seeing the other couple; and in fact we are invited out with them again next week. Joe insists that due to his business exchange with Dan, he doesn't want to make him offended. He claims that everything will iron out satisfactorily if matters take their own course.

I want to regain my self-respect. I love my husband and I want to guard against a relapse into misbehavior. I would also like to keep this couple as friends; but do you think it is possible after what happened?

V. R.

DEAR V. R.: I notice you write from a town that for decades has been known as a turbulent center of conjugal instability and infidelity; and sexual perverseness and promiscuity. And your recital indicates that your husband and your marriage have become infected with the regional taint of moral evil—which begins in the mind and imagination. And that in the other couple you met the devil's accomplices—who were also germ carriers of corruption.

As matters stand now, after the foursome has offended against human decency, so explicitly that none can deny wrong doing, you alone are showing symptoms of being more nearly healthy than depraved, despite your mistake. This is evident in your candid sentiments of bitter regret; and in your shocked concern to take measures, at once, to safeguard against relapse, and thus start to rebuild self-respect.

Your sharply repentant and newly defensive attitude is intelligently realistic. It is in line with bedrock social sanity. And as you value mental health and general well being, and the ability to distinguish between right and wrong, you had better stick to your dearbought convictions, despite any efforts of your husband (and perchance the other couple) to assuage your misgivings and lure you back into the former routine of temptations.

Man Is Blind

Your husband's angry impatience with your sorrowful stocktaking gives the measure of his weak demoralization in the circumstances. He isn't ready to behave responsibly. But he is on edge with morbid anxiety and nervous tension, as he wrestles with dark impulses, diffuse guilt feelings, an undertow of shame, etc., and plugs for the course of least resistance.

As you haven't lost your bearings entirely, whereas Joe is blinded momentarily, you simply can't afford to let him lead you by the nose through this crisis. I believe you should decline absolutely to associate further with the other couple, on the previous basis of cronyism. If Joe wishes to maintain a whited-sepulcher friendship with Dan, that's a problem for his conscience.

As an antidote to the evil thinking that has led you astray, read 'The Secret of Happiness" (Doubleday), by Billy Graham—a brilliantly light-filled book.

Vacationing Ohioan Dies In Mexico

ACAPULCO, Mexico (AP)—Charles Elliott Blakeman, 31, of Lima, Ohio, died suddenly here Wednesday.

Officials were told Blackeman dropped dead while wading in knee-deep water. An autopsy is planned.

Blakeman, said to be a bus driver, was vacationing here with his wife and two sons.

Church Lottery Winnings Taxable

WASHINGTON (AP)—Taxes must be paid on prizes awarded at church bazaar drawings, the U. S. Tax Court ruled.

"If the plan or scheme falls within the definition of a lottery, it is not rendered something else because it is conducted for a charitable or religious purpose," the court said.

"And the recipient of a lottery prize does not receive tax-free income because the sponsors conducted the lottery for a worthy purpose."

Lima TB Hospital Director Selected

LIMA, Ohio (AP) — The board of trustees of the Lima District Tuberculosis Hospital has announced appointment of Dr. E. L. Steinkopff as medical director at an annual salary of $10,000.

Dr. Steinkopff, from Janesville, Wis., replaces Dr. R. Fred Broach, who resigned to take a position at Bluffton, Ind.

Dr. Steinkopff, who assumes his new duties March 19, will be the seventh medical director at the hospital since 1951. It serves Allen, Auglaize, Mercer, Shelby and Van Wert counties.

Technician Union Pickets Bob Hope

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Assn. of Broadcast Employes and Technicians picketed NBC here Tuesday night during the Bob Hope television show.

Harold Byers, president of the union's metropolitan New York local, said the pickets were in protests against Hope's program. The union is on strike against station KOA-TV, Denver, in which Hope is a stockholder.

There was no effort by union employes of NBC to keep the program off the air. The union has a contract with the network.

College Debaters Eye Wage Issue

KENT, Ohio (AP)—A guaranteed annual wage will be the topic for the 14th annual Buckeye debate tournament to be held Saturday at Kent State University. Teams from 21 colleges and universities are expected.

"Resolved, that the non-agricultural industries of the United States should guarantee their employes an annual wage," is the proposition.

In last year's tournament, Heidelberg College and Central Michigan tied for first place.

Weekly Food Review

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

You'll find a good range of meats available at special prices in your food markets this weekend, but pork appears to offer the best value for your money.

Pork prices went up rather sharply at wholesale recently, but now they've come down again. Many stores are cutting prices on some pork items this week and expect to reduce others next week.

A large chain, for instance, is shaving pork chop prices by four to six cents a pound in some areas.

In the beef line there will be special prices here and there on prime ribs and sirloin and round steaks. Pot raost will be featured rather widely.

Frying chickens will sell for about the same as a week ago in most places. Egg and butter prices are stable.

The National Assn. of Food Chains is featuring beef and veal in the coming week as "big supply-best buy" items.

The very best buys in vegetables, produce men say, are potatoes, onions, canadian turnips and iceberg lettuce.

There are few good beans around, and eggplant shows a wide range in price and quality.

Railroad Rate Boost Hearing Delayed Month

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The state utilities commission has continued until March 20 a case in which railroads seek to boost Ohio freight charges seven per cent.

Groups opposed to the increase asked more time to prepare arguments and the commission complied, following a hearing.

Witnesses representing railroads operating in Ohio had asked the boost effective Feb. 25. They said money could be refunded if the commission later reduced the increase.

The railroads claim that unless they can charge higher rates their plan to buy many new freight cars and locomotives will be slowed down and the public will suffer through poorer service.

Four cities, Cleveland, Youngstown, Toledo and Shelby, are fighting the increase along with coal, agriculture, grain, electric, industrial limestone, greenhouse and other interests.

West Hemisphere Top Peak Noted

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP)—A Chilean army mountain climbing expedition says Ojos del Salado (Salt Springs Peak) is the tallest mountain in the Western Hemisphere.

The expedition, which scaled the peak on the Argentine-Chilean border reported it rises 23,573 feet above sea level. It had previously been listed at 22,539.

Aconcagua, another Andean Peak—23,035 feet—had been considered the highest in the Americas.

Roundtown Retrospect

By Mac Noggle

We got a big kick in reading an editorial which appeared in the Sept. 15, 1827 issue of "The Olive Branch and Pickaway Herald", under the heading "Circleville in 1827".

It appears that "The Scioto Gazette" had been running a number of essays about how much better was the town of Chillicothe over its upstart, northern neighbor, Circleville. William B. Thrall, editor of The Olive Branch, took exception to the boasting and published some sizzling replies. The banter is colorful and amusing—but let's stick to local history—it's more enduring.

"Circleville is situated on the east bank of the Scioto River, 25 miles south of Columbus and 20 miles southwest of Lancaster; in north latitude 39 degrees and 38 minutes, and west longitude 5 degrees and 55 minutes from the meridian of Washington. It is on the most direct route from Philadelphia and Washington City to Cincinnati and Illinois, on which route the public mail destined for those parts now passes in stages to and fro three times per week and is soon expected to pass daily.

"The traveler in passing on this route from Lancaster to Cincinnati, or to central and southern parts of Indiana, Illinois and Missouri, saves at least 15 miles in distance and obtains a much better road than by taking the Chillicothe route. It is the direct road, too, from Portsmouth and Gallipolis to Columbus and Sandusky Bay. On this road a mail passes to and fro thrice each week in stages. The Ohio Canal is surveyed and considered located on the western borders of the town, between the in-lots and the river.

"The town contains 102 dwelling houses, besides 22 building this season. Thus it is increasing by an addition of one-fifth to its size in a single year. Several of the buildings erecting are substantial brick and frame buildings of spacious dimensions. Preparations are making for the erection of a still greater number next season.

"Rents and the value of property have been increasing at the rate of 25 per cent for the last two years and bid fair to increase in the same ratio for several years hence. The public buildings are a court house, jail, a building containing six public offices, an academy, a public schoolhouse, a Presbyterian church and a market house, all of brick, except the jail which is stone.

"The population of the town consists of 107 families, containing 725 inhabitants, 55 of whom are persons of color.

"There are nine mercantile stores employing a capital of about forty three thousand dollars; three druggist and apothecary shops; three groceries and bakeries, employing a capital of five hundred dollars.

"Of mechanics—there are seven carpenters, six cabinet makers, four chair makers, three wheelwrights, two coopers, two wagon makers, six shoe makers, four tanners, two saddlers, five tailors, two weavers, one clothier, four hatters, four blacksmiths, two silversmiths, one clock maker, two watch makers and jewelers, four masons, three brick makers, one tinner, one printer, one rope maker, two butchers, one distiller, one potter and one barber. There are also four attorneys, five physicians and two teachers. There is also one rope walk and, adjacent to town, two wollen establishments and three sawmills.

"From this some idea may be formed of the business done in town. In several of the trades there are young men employed as journeymen, who are not enumerated in the above list. Several more carpenters and house joiners and several more masons and brick layers might find profitable employment. A coppersmith, a brewer, a dyer, a fancy painter, a carriage maker, a stone cutter and several other trades might find a good situation here for their business.

"Since the Autumn of 1823, the town has been more healthy, it is believed, than any of the neighboring towns. There has been but one death by fever in this season and very few cases."

Malayan States To Get Freedom

LONDON (AP)—British and Malayan negotiators have announced agreement to proclaim the independence within the British commonwealth of Britain's biggest dollar earner—the Federation of Malaya—by August 31, 1957.

The decision to set free the nine Malay states and former straits settlements of Penang and Malacca does not affect the island of Singapore, a British crown colony.

GOP Delegates At Convention Are Selected

COLUMBUS (AP) — Ohio Republican headquarters has announced the names of delegates and alternates who seek election in the May primary to attend the GOP National Convention. Ohio will have 56 votes at the San Francisco convention next August.

Republican delegates will be pledged to U.S. Sen. John W. Bricker as Ohio's "Favorite son" candidate for President pending disclosure of President Eisenhower's decision on whether to seek reelection.

District delegates and alternates include:

Fifth—Kenneth H. Adams, North Baltimore, and Harold L. Schlosser, Defiance; alternates, Lewis F. Wiechart, Delphos, and Harold F. Stotzer, Archbold.

Sixth—Manly A. Hill, Milford, and H. W. Scott, Sardinia; alternates, Blaine Ewing Mathews, Portsmouth, and George W. Rittenour, Piketon.

Seventh — William M. Johnson, Urbana, and Joseph C. Shouvlin, Springfield; alternates, John H. DeVoss, Milford Center, and William Holland, Urbana.

Tenth—Dean L. Dollison, Logan, and Homer E. Abele, McArthur; alternates, Maxine H. Charlton, Lancaster, and Howard Morgan, Oak Hill.

Watchmen Watch Each Other Closely

CLEVELAND (AP)—Two watchmen working in the same building saw each other for the first time early Wednesday.

One sneaked behind a box. The other phoned police. Neither knew the other had seen him.

Police arrived to hear each claim, "I'm the watchman. He's the burglar."

It turned out that James Gates, 40, was the watchman for a drug firm on the fourth floor of the building. The other watchman, 75, was hired four days ago by a cigar manufacturer to guard the first three floors.

The older watchman, embarrassed, refused to tell his name.

Unmarried Lady Doctor, 27, To Adopt 7 Little Indians

LEMONT, Pa. (AP)—A young and unmarried woman chiropractor, already the foster mother of two children orphaned nine years ago, heads for Idaho soon to collect seven little Indians whom she intends to adopt.

The whole happy brood will be turned loose in Dr. Imogene Barker's five - bedroom house which, she says, "we can fix up here and there to accommodate all nine children and a married couple now living with me."

"We all agree it will be a lot of fun," she said, "They need help, and I can give it to them. That's all there is to it.

"If there is one thing that troubles me, it is that the Indian children will all have to have their names changed from their tribal ones. I frankly admit it's going to be some task to find suitable names for these four girls and three boys."

Nine years ago Dr. Barker, 27, took on the job of rearing two children whose father died in a hospital where she had been training. The children, both boys, are now 11 and 13.

* * *

THE INDIAN children, who are of the Shoshone tribe, are from 1 to 11 years old and live on a reservation at Fort Hall, Idaho. Dr. Barker said she became interested in them when she heard a talk by a missionary at a church.

She promptly agreed to adopt two children in a family whose difficulties were described as acute. Later, however, she found out there were seven children. Unhesitatingly, she consented to take them all.

"So far," she said, "I haven't told my parents about adopting all seven. I haven't the nerve. But I'm sure they'll be glad to hear the news anyway."

Her parents live in White Plains, Md., where Dr. Barker was born.

Dr. Barker said she expects to go to Fort Hall next month.

Why should a young, unmarried woman undertake such great responsibilities? She says:

"They need help, and I can give it to them. They need religious and other training; I can give it to them. Their people need religious training and I intend to send the children to Bible schools that they might return someday and give that training to their people."

Paris Fashions To Be Sold In Kits

PARIS (AP) — Make-it - yourself Paris fashions, at prices starting from about $15, have been shown here at the fashion parade.

Already on sale by mail order in the United States, the Gaston de Paris creations are shortly to be offered directly through American retail outlets.

The scheme for pre-cut dresses, suits and coats, with trimmings and materials, was started here experimentally last season. The clothes are designed by Serge Kogan, who worked with Dior, Lelong and Lily Dache in New York before opening his own Paris dress house. They are aimed at the millions of American women who do their own sewing.

Sokolsky's

At any rate, it will be a campaign this time, with a minimum of politeness, with plenty of accusations. The Republicans tried hard to make a deal to keep the foreign policy out of the campaign, the same as Dewey did every time he ran, thus leaving himself without an issue. The Democrats are making no deals, which means that there is a chance that things will be brought out which have been under the carpet for years.

And in this field, there is no unity in the Republican Party. The deal on China trade which Eisenhower made with Eden, the exact nature of which we do not know, will get an airing and will be attacked on the Republican side more than on the Democratic side. It may reopen the entire question of our trading with countries in the Soviet Universal State.

The concept of this period as salubrious and without excitement because ther is peace and prosperity is proving false. We are in for a nasty fight. And it may be in very bad taste.

5 Candidates Seek Dem Nod For Governor

COLUMBUS (AP)—Ohio Democratic voters will have a wide variety of choices when they pick their party's candidate for governor at the May primary election.

Cleveland Municipal Judge John E. Sweeney has filed for the gubernatorial nomination to make it a five-man race in the May primary election.

Sweeney was elected secretary of state in 1940 and appointed to the state liquor board in 1943. He resigned that year to become a judge in Cleveland.

Other Democrats seeking the post that Gov .Frank J. Lausche will leave next January are Michael V. DiSalle, former Toledo mayor and price controller; Oscar L. Fleckner of Columbus, former state liquor director; Robert W. Reider, Port Clinton publisher and former state representative, and Mayor Frank X. Kryzan of Youngstown.

Cadillac

His Favorite Investment!

"It's the wisest motor car investment I ever made!"

"I've owned a great many makes through the years, but Cadillac wins my vote as the finest investment of them all."

"In my book, it is the best dollar investment on the highway today!"

We can't tell you how many times we've heard it. In fact, Cadillac's value and economy have become favorite topics of conversation among Cadillac owners everywhere.

And their sentiments are based on some very substantial facts about the "car of cars."

First of all, there's the economy of buying a Cadillac. Many models are actually priced competitively with the "medium-priced" makes.

Then there is the economy of operating a Cadillac. Cadillac's gasoline mileage is simply phenomenal for a car of its size and stature . . . and its dependability is truly extraordinary.

And, finally, there is the economy that comes from Cadillac's great value. In resale markets all across the land, the Cadillac car traditionally returns a higher percentage of its original cost than any other automobile built in America.

And consider what generous dividends Cadillac owners receive from their investments.

. . . Cadillac's superlative beauty and luxury . . . Cadillac's magnificent performance and comfort . . . and Cadillac's wonderful reputation among the world's motorists.

We suggest that you pay us a visit soon and investigate the latest and finest Cadillac investment of them all.

We have the car . . . and the keys . . . and the facts—and we'll be happy to give you all three at any time. Why not make it today?

It appears that "The Scioto Gazette" had been running a number of essays about how much better was the town of Chillicothe over its upstart, northern neighbor, Circleville. William B. Thrall, editor of The Olive Branch, took exception to the boasting and published some sizzling replies. The banter is colorful and amusing—but let's stick to local history—it's more enduring.

"Circleville is situated on the east bank of the Scioto River, 25 miles south of Columbus and 20 miles southwest of Lancaster; in north latitude 39 degrees and 38 minutes, and west longitude 5 degrees and 55 minutes from the meridian of Washington. It is on the most direct route from Philadelphia and Washington City to Cincinnati and Illinois, on which route the public mail destined for those parts now passes in stages to and fro three times per week and is soon expected to pass daily.

"The traveler in passing on this route from Lancaster to Cincinnati, or to central and southern parts of Indiana, Illinois and Missouri, saves at least 15 miles in distance and obtains a much better road than by taking the Chillicothe route. It is the direct road, too, from Portsmouth and Gallipolis to Columbus and Sandusky Bay. On this road a mail passes to and fro thrice each week in stages. The Ohio Canal is surveyed and considered located on the western borders of the town, between the in-lots and the river.

"The town contains 102 dwelling houses, besides 22 building this season. Thus it is increasing by an addition of one-fifth to its size in a single year. Several of the buildings erecting are substantial brick and frame buildings of spacious dimensions. Preparations are making for the erection of a still greater number next season.

"Rents and the value of property have been increasing at the rate of 25 per cent for the last two years and bid fair to increase in the same ratio for several years hence. The public buildings are a court house, jail, a building containing six public offices, an academy, a public schoolhouse, a Presbyterian church and a market house, all of brick, except the jail which is stone.

"The population of the town consists of 107 families, containing 725 inhabitants, 55 of whom are persons of color.

"There are nine mercantile stores employing a capital of about forty three thousand dollars; three druggist and apothecary shops; three groceries and bakeries, employing a capital of five hundred dollars.

"Of mechanics—there are seven carpenters, six cabinet makers, four chair makers, three wheelwrights, two coopers, two wagon makers, six shoe makers, four tanners, two saddlers, five tailors, two weavers, one clothier, four hatters, four blacksmiths, two silversmiths, one clock maker, two watch makers and jewelers, four masons, three brick makers, one tinner, one printer, one rope maker, two butchers, one distiller, one potter and one barber. There are also four attorneys, five physicians and two teachers. There is also one rope walk and, adjacent to town, two wollen establishments and three sawmills.

"From this some idea may be formed of the business done in town. In several of the trades there are young men employed as journeymen, who are not enumerated in the above list. Several more carpenters and house joiners and several more masons and brick layers might find profitable employment. A coppersmith, a brewer, a dyer, a fancy painter, a carriage maker, a stone cutter and several other trades might find a good situation here for their business.

"Since the Autumn of 1823, the town has been more healthy, it is believed, than any of the neighboring towns. There has been but one death by fever in this season and very few cases."

Malayan States To Get Freedom

LONDON (AP)—British and Malayan negotiators have announced agreement to proclaim the independence within the British commonwealth of Britain's biggest dollar earner—the Federation of Malaya—by August 31, 1957.

The decision to set free the nine Malay states and former straits settlements of Penang and Malacca does not affect the island of Singapore, a British crown colony.

GOP Delegates At Convention Are Selected

COLUMBUS (AP) — Ohio Republican headquarters has announced the names of delegates and alternates who seek election in the May primary to attend the GOP National Convention. Ohio will have 56 votes at the San Francisco convention next August.

Republican delegates will be pledged to U.S. Sen. John W. Bricker as Ohio's "Favorite son" candidate for President pending disclosure of President Eisenhower's decision on whether to seek reelection.

District delegates and alternates include:

Sixth—Manly A. Hill, Milford, and H. W. Scott, Sardinia; alternates, Blaine Ewing Mathews, Portsmouth, and George W. Rittenour, Piketon.

Seventh — William M. Johnson, Urbana, and Joseph C. Shouvlin, Springfield; alternates, John H. DeVoss, Milford Center, and William Holland, Urbana.

Tenth—Dean L. Dollison, Logan, and Homer E. Abele, McArthur; alternates, Maxine H. Charlton, Lancaster, and Howard Morgan, Oak Hill.

Watchmen Watch Each Other Closely

CLEVELAND (AP)—Two watchmen working in the same building saw each other for the first time early Wednesday.

One sneaked behind a box. The other phoned police. Neither knew the other had seen him.

Police arrived to hear each claim, "I'm the watchman. He's the burglar."

It turned out that James Gates, 40, was the watchman for a drug firm on the fourth floor of the building. The other watchman, 75, was hired four days ago by a cigar manufacturer to guard the first three floors.

The older watchman, embarrassed, refused to tell his name.

Unmarried Lady Doctor, 27, To Adopt 7 Little Indians

LEMONT, Pa. (AP)—A young and unmarried woman chiropractor, already the foster mother of two children orphaned nine years ago, heads for Idaho soon to collect seven little Indians whom she intends to adopt.

The whole happy brood will be turned loose in Dr. Imogene Barker's five - bedroom house which, she says, "we can fix up here and there to accommodate all nine children and a married couple now living with me."

"We all agree it will be a lot of fun," she said, "They need help, and I can give it to them. That's all there is to it.

"If there is one thing that troubles me, it is that the Indian children will all have to have their names changed from their tribal ones. I frankly admit it's going to be some task to find suitable names for these four girls and three boys."

Nine years ago Dr. Barker, 27, took on the job of rearing two children whose father died in a hospital where she had been training. The children, both boys, are now 11 and 13.

* * *

THE INDIAN children, who are of the Shoshone tribe, are from 1 to 11 years old and live on a reservation at Fort Hall, Idaho. Dr. Barker said she became interested in them when she heard a talk by a missionary at a church.

She promptly agreed to adopt two children in a family whose difficulties were described as acute. Later, however, she found out there were seven children. Unhesitatingly, she consented to take them all.

"So far," she said, "I haven't told my parents about adopting all seven. I haven't the nerve. But I'm sure they'll be glad to hear the news anyway."

Her parents live in White Plains, Md., where Dr. Barker was born.

Dr. Barker said she expects to go to Fort Hall next month.

Why should a young, unmarried woman undertake such great responsibilities? She says:

"They need help, and I can give it to them. They need religious and other training; I can give it to them. Their people need religious training and I intend to send the children to Bible schools that they might return someday and give that training to their people."

Paris Fashions To Be Sold In Kits

PARIS (AP) — Make-it - yourself Paris fashions, at prices starting from about $15, have been shown here at the fashion parade.

Already on sale by mail order in the United States, the Gaston de Paris creations are shortly to be offered directly through American retail outlets.

The scheme for pre-cut dresses, suits and coats, with trimmings and materials, was started here experimentally last season. The clothes are designed by Serge Kogan, who worked with Dior, Lelong and Lily Dache in New York before opening his own Paris dress house. They are aimed at the millions of American women who do their own sewing.

At any rate, it will be a campaign this time, with a minimum of politeness, with plenty of accusations. The Republicans tried hard to make a deal to keep the foreign policy out of the campaign, the same as Dewey did every time he ran, thus leaving himself without an issue. The Democrats are making no deals, which means that there is a chance that things will be brought out which have been under the carpet for years.

And in this field, there is no unity in the Republican Party. The deal on China trade which Eisenhower made with Eden, the exact nature of which we do not know, will get an airing and will be attacked on the Republican side more than on the Democratic side. It may reopen the entire question of our trading with countries in the Soviet Universal State.

The concept of this period as salubrious and without excitement because ther is peace and prosperity is proving false. We are in for a nasty fight. And it may be in very bad taste.

5 Candidates Seek Dem Nod For Governor

COLUMBUS (AP)—Ohio Democratic voters will have a wide variety of choices when they pick their party's candidate for governor at the May primary election.

Cleveland Municipal Judge John E. Sweeney has filed for the gubernatorial nomination to make it a five-man race in the May primary election.

Sweeney was elected secretary of state in 1940 and appointed to the state liquor board in 1943. He resigned that year to become a judge in Cleveland.

Other Democrats seeking the post that Gov .Frank J. Lausche will leave next January are Michael V. DiSalle, former Toledo mayor and price controller; Oscar L. Fleckner of Columbus, former state liquor director; Robert W. Reider, Port Clinton publisher and former state representative, and Mayor Frank X. Kryzan of Youngstown.

Cadillac

His Favorite Investment!

"It's the wisest motor car investment I ever made!"

"I've owned a great many makes through the years, but Cadillac wins my vote as the finest investment of them all."

"In my book, it is the best dollar investment on the highway today!"

We can't tell you how many times we've heard it. In fact, Cadillac's value and economy have become favorite topics of conversation among Cadillac owners everywhere.

And their sentiments are based on some very substantial facts about the "car of cars."

First of all, there's the economy of buying a Cadillac. Many models are actually priced competitively with the "medium-priced" makes.

Then there is the economy of operating a Cadillac. Cadillac's gasoline mileage is simply phenomenal for a car of its size and stature . . . and its dependability is truly extraordinary.

And, finally, there is the economy that comes from Cadillac's great value. In resale markets all across the land, the Cadillac car traditionally returns a higher percentage of its original cost than any other automobile built in America.

And consider what generous dividends Cadillac owners receive from their investments.

. . . Cadillac's superlative beauty and luxury . . . Cadillac's magnificent performance and comfort . . . and Cadillac's wonderful reputation among the world's motorists.

We suggest that you pay us a visit soon and investigate the latest and finest Cadillac investment of them all.

We have the car . . . and the keys . . . and the facts—and we'll be happy to give you all three at any time. Why not make it today?

Big Decision Day Nearing

Will Challenge Of Times Again Influence President?

Editor's Note: Following is the third in a series of articles giving the background on the Eisenhower personality as he prepares to decide whether to seek the U. S. presidency a second time.

By RELMAN MORIN

WASHINGTON (AP)— On a June day in 1952, Dwight D. Eisenhower sat in his compartment on a train crossing the Kansas wheat fields, chatting with reporters.

The day before, in his home town of Abilene, he had started his drive for the Republican presidential nomination. Now, as he talked, he underlined the reasons that had impelled him to enter the race, after having said so often he never would get into politics:

1. He was worried about the situation. "This is a terrifically serious time."

2. GOP leaders had convinced him that he might be able to unify diverse elements in the nation and the party.

Today, top Republicans tell you these same two considerations will figure heavily in the President's deliberations on a second term.

When the Citizens for Eisenhower organization was reactiviated recently, the letter of announcement cited "present world conditions" as being likely to induce the President to run again.

One of the three signers of this letter was Gen. Lucius D. Clay, Eisenhower's friend and former Army colleague. Clay said, in listing what he considers other major factors: "The objectives of his program have not yet been fully achieved. He knows it may take another four years."

Other Republicans describe Eisenhower's leadership in the party as the "cement" that holds together its differing elements. They say he knows this too.

These are points that might incline Eisenhower toward running for a second term. But his frankly expressed apprehension about the effect on his office of some "untoward" event may be pulling him in the opposite direction.

Not long ago, the President said, "I have to guess as to the next five years, and the problem is what will be the effect on the presidency, not on me."

The remark was particularly interesting to the military circles in Washington. A professional soldier said:

"You have to remember that ever since he was in West Point, he has been accustomed to the thought that he might get killed in the line of duty. He's been trained not to take that into account. And I don't think he will now."

Out of Army parlance came that expression "the calculated risk."

Is the President calculating the biggest risk of all?

Tomorrow: If not Eisenhower, then who? And what?

Gallipolis Wins Legal Round In Its Raw Sewage Battle

GALLIPOLIS, Ohio (AP)—Gallipolis has won a round in its fight to discharge raw sewage into the Ohio River.

A court ruling Wednesday reversed an order of the Ohio Water Pollution Control Board. The board had denied Gallipolis a renewal of its permit to empty sewage into the river.

The ruling came from Meigs County Judge Cedric W. Clark, who heard the case by assignment in Gallia County Common Pleas Court.

At the same time, Clark upheld the city's appeal from the board's refusal to renew the permit.

Clark said the board should have admitted and considered evidence offered by Gallipolis that municipal corporations in West Virginia, above Gallipolis, are discharging sewage into the Ohio River.

Clark referred to a section of the Ohio Revised Code in making his ruling. That section exempted cities from building sewage disposal plants if cities in other states, above the town in question, were discharging sewage into the same river.

The attorney general had protested that the section of the code was repealed by a later section. But Clark said it was not.

"The court," said the judge, "upon consideration of the entire record, fails to find that the record of the water pollution control board is supported by reliable probative and substantial evidence."

Gallipolis' permit to discharge sewage into the Ohio River expired Feb. 15, 1955. The board refused to renew the permit. On March 22, the city appealed the board's decision.

Wednesday's ruling was the result of that appeal.

Last May 10, however, the attorney general cited Gallipolis in Franklin County Common Pleas Court for discharging sewage without a permit. The city became liable to a maximum fine of $500 for each day it continued the action without a permit.

The Gallia County Court ruling may have an effect on the outcome of the Franklin County Court case.

Pickaway Girl, Jackson Boy Win In Youth Leadership Competition

Two Pickaway County high school juniors, one from Pickaway Township School and the other from Jackson Township School, were named today as winners of the Youth Leadership Contest sponsored by the local Elks Lodge as part of national competition.

The Pickaway Township winner in the girls' division was Linda Ann Wilson, of Circleville Route 1. George William Bowling of Circleville Route 2 was named winner in the boys' division.

Each of the high school juniors will receive a $25 Defense Bond at the All-County Junior-Senior Prom scheduled to be held by the Elks on May 4.

A Circleville High School senior, Donna Mitchell of E. Mound St., was runnerup in the girls' division, and David Brown of Circleville Route 2, a senior at Williamsport High School, was the boys' division runnerup.

* * *

THE NAMES, essays, recommendations and backgrounds of the two winners will be submitted for state competition.

Each county school and Circleville High School entered a boy and girl who exhibited outstanding leadership qualities in the competition.

Applicants were judged by their grades, extra-curricular activities, position held in part-time employment, and a report of not more than 300 words written by them.

Also considered in each case was a letter written by a parent and two or three letters from persons not related to the applicant.

The point system was used in selecting the winners. A maximum of 40 points was granted for leadership, 20 points for perseverance and resourcefulness, and 20 points for sense of humor.

State winners will be eligible for the national first prize of a $1,000 Defense Bond. Second prize will be a $500 bond and $300 bond for third place.

Judges of the local contest were: Joe Bell, chairman; Judson Lanman, George D. Young, Ellis List, Robert Moyer, Andrew Thomas, Guy Cline, Robert Seward, and Ned Dresbach.

Fish weighing as much as two and a half pounds have been taken from the pouch of the pelican.

Pickaway Girl, Jackson Boy Win In Youth Leadership Competition

Two Pickaway County high school juniors, one from Pickaway Township School and the other from Jackson Township School, were named today as winners of the Youth Leadership Contest sponsored by the local Elks Lodge as part of national competition.

The Pickaway Township winner in the girls' division was Linda Ann Wilson, of Circleville Route 1. George William Bowling of Circleville Route 2 was named winner in the boys' division.

Each of the high school juniors will receive a $25 Defense Bond at the All-County Junior-Senior Prom scheduled to be held by the Elks on May 4.

A Circleville High School senior, Donna Mitchell of E. Mound St., was runnerup in the girls' division, and David Brown of Circleville Route 2, a senior at Williamsport High School, was the boys' division runnerup.

* * *

THE NAMES, essays, recommendations and backgrounds of the two winners will be submitted for state competition.

Each county school and Circleville High School entered a boy and girl who exhibited outstanding leadership qualities in the competition.

Applicants were judged by their grades, extra-curricular activities, position held in part-time employment, and a report of not more than 300 words written by them.

Also considered in each case was a letter written by a parent and two or three letters from persons not related to the applicant.

The point system was used in selecting the winners. A maximum of 40 points was granted for leadership, 20 points for perseverance and resourcefulness, and 20 points for sense of humor.

State winners will be eligible for the national first prize of a $1,000 Defense Bond. Second prize will be a $500 bond and $300 bond for third place.

Judges of the local contest were: Joe Bell, chairman; Judson Lanman, George D. Young, Ellis List, Robert Moyer, Andrew Thomas, Guy Cline, Robert Seward, and Ned Dresbach.

Answers Given To Typical Questions On Income Taxes

Editor's Note: Following is the ninth in a series of ten articles on methods for making out a tax return on your 1955 income.

By FRANK O'BRIEN
AP Staff Writer

Every year, as taxpaying time comes around the Revenue Service is bombarded with questions from millions of taxpayers puzzled by the ins and outs of the income tax law as applied to their particular income.

The Revenue Service has been keeping track of the questions, to find out what are the most frequent queries. In this and the following article are answers to questions on the 20 subjects which apparently bother the ordinary income taxpayer the most.

You can find more comprehensive answers to these questions in the instructions that come with your tax forms, under the general headings where these questions would fit. For instance, the subject of the first question, having to do with income in some form other than money, is discussed in the instructions for Form 1040, the basic tax form, on page 5, under the heading "What Income is Taxed."

* * *

ADDITIONALLY, you can obtain from any Revenue Service office for 25 cents, the Service's own authoritative survey of income tax matters, a small book entitled "Your Federal Income Tax." This contains fairly simple written discussions (with examples, in many cases) of most problems the individual income taxpayer, even the one with a complex income, would come up against.

And this year, the Revenue Service is distributing, free, through its offices and Agricultural Extension Service offices and agents, a special and comprehensive work on the farmer's particular tax problems, called "The Farmers' Tax Guide."

* * *

HERE ARE questions having to do with 10 subjects apparently most troubling to taxpayers. The answers were supplied, like the questions, by the Revenue Service:

1. (Income in some form other than money) I helped my boss (or someone else) build his summer cottage, and he gave me a beach lot for my work. Is that taxable income?

Yes, because it was given to you for services you rendered, and is therefore not a gift. You report as income the fair market value of the lot.

2. (Moving expenses) My employer transferred me from one town to another, and paid all my moving expenses to the transfer company. Is that expense money part of my salary—my taxable income?

It is if you requested the transfer. It is not if the transfer was at your employer's order.

3. (Sale of a home) I sold my residence, at a profit of $3,000 last June. I used the $15,000 I got for my residence, including my $3,000 profit, to buy a new residence in December. Is the $3,000 profit on my sale taxable?

Not in your case. In the sale and purchase of a residence, both being the taxpayer's own home, any profit made on the sale is not taxable if the profit is reinvested in another home within a year (18 months in case you build the new home, instead of buying one already built). But if the transaction results in a loss, the loss is not deductible.

4. (Exclusion of dividend income) My wife and I received $300 in dividends on stock we own during 1955. Is some part of this excludable from our income subject to tax?

Yes, but the amount excludable depends on just how you got the dividends. Each of you may exclude up to $50 dividend income, but only if each of you had at least that much dividends from qualified corporations. For instance, if the husband had dividends of $270 and the wife $30, the husband can exclude $50 and the wife only $30, a total of $80.

5. (Dividends from a savings and loan association) Can I claim a tax credit (or exclusion) for dividends I received from a building and loan association.

No. Quite the contrary, such dividends are considered interest, and as such they are fully taxable.

6. (Board and lodging from an employer) Must I include in my income the value of room and meals furnished to me by my employer?

It depends entirely on where and why you got the meals and room, and it is different for meals and room. You need not report the value of the meals if they were furnished on the business premises, and for the convenience of the employer. The value of your room can be excluded if it meets those same tests, and in addition you were required to live on the business premises as a condition of your job.

7. (Gifts from an employer) Must I include in my income a $300 Christmas gift from my employer?

Yes, because gifts from employers are considered a return for services rendered. So are tips, bonuses, and the like.

8. (The "self-employment tax") Am I required to pay self employment (social security) tax on the net profit from my grocery store?

Yes, if the net profit is over $400. The social security tax is 3 per cent of net profits up to $4,200 for the self employed. (But if in addition to self employment income you had wages from which social security taxes were withheld, you pay the 3 per cent tax only on the difference between your wages and any amount of self employment income up to $4,200.)

9. (When to file a return, if you are self employed) The net profits from my grocery store in 1955 were $500. Must I file an income tax return?

Yes, for two reasons. First, anyone with gross income of $600 and over (almost certainly the case here) is required to file a return, even if they have no tax to pay. Secondly, a net profit of $500 would require you to pay the social security tax of the self employed.

10. (When is income received) My bank entered a credit of $50, for interest, in my passbook on Jan. 2, 1956. But I find the amount was credited to my account in the bank on Dec. 28, 1955. In which year's income do I include this interest?

In your income for 1955, because it was credited to your account in 1955, and you could have drawn upon it then. The deciding factor is—when did the money become yours? It becomes yours when credited to your account. When it got entered in your passbook does not matter.

If you are hospitalized for at least one day at any time during an illness, you may deduct up to $100 a week of your sick pay from income subject to federal tax.

If you don't go to the hospital, you may not begin deductions until the second week.

Article No. 3 in this series, printed last week, said that to claim such a sick pay exclusion you have to be hospitalized a day during the first week of illness.

Lima Supermart Chief Arrested

LIMA (AP)—The Better Business Bureau in Lima claims that a contest, sponsored by Albers super markets and offering as a first prize an eight day all-expenses-paid vacation to Florida, is a lottery.

Fred D. Guy, 53, manager of the Albers store in Lima, was arrested on complaint of the bureau and charged with disposing of lottery tickets. He will be arraigned today in court.

A spokesman for the bureau said the charges were filed against Guy to make a test case of Ohio's lottery laws. The bureau maintains the contest is a lottery because no expense or skill is involved. Contestants are required only to fill out a registration blank.

Two Postponed County League Games Scheduled For Friday

Two postponed league basketball tilts and one non-league affair will close out Pickaway County's regular cage season Friday night.

Scioto will be aiming for a third place tie when the Buffaloes host Pickaway in their postponed match.

Scioto currently boasts a 6-3 league record and a win will allow Coach Joe Corbett's cagers to share the third spot with Jackson. For the season, Scioto has the third base mark of county quintets, 12-5.

The Pirates of Pickaway, who started out the season well but slowed down considerably, will try to improve their 4-5 league and 6-9 overall records.

* * *

IN THE other postponed contest, Darby will travel to New Holland The Trojans of Darby will attempt to even up their league mark at 5-5 and boost their season's mark to 8-11.

New Holland's Bulldogs, who haven't been able to win lately, will try to improve their 3-6 league mark and 6-10 season slate.

Particular interest will be centered on the reserve scrap as the junior Bulldogs need a win to make an undisputed claim to the league's reserve title. The reservists have a perfect mark in league competition while Ashville's seconds finished with a 9-1 record.

The New Holland reserve squad has a 15-1 season mark.

In a non-league game at Jackson Coach Charlie Baxter's Wildcats will try to snap a two-game losing streak when they entertain Chillicothe Central Catholic. The tall, rugged Chillicothe quintet should provide pretty stiff competition for the Jackson cagers.

Tigers Return To Home Court To Take On Greenfield Friday

Flushed with a good non-league victory over Marion-Franklin, Circleville's Tigers return to the SCOL wars as they entertain Greenfield in the new E. Mill St. gym Friday night. This is the second last home game of the season.

The local lads will be trying to avenge an earlier defeat by Greenfield, accounting for the Highland Countians' only league victory. They were dumped by Blanchester Tuesday night and now have an overall record of 6-9; they are 1-5 in SCOL play.

Circleville's reserves, meanwhile, will be pointing to victory No. 14 without having tasted defeat yet. Coach Dick Boyd's boys have flashed past all opposition, sometimes having to come from way behind to gain the nod.

Fans who are watching the Kittens as reserves this season may well be seeing a preview of next year's varsity. Head cage coach Red Courtney will be losing virtually all of his present starting team — Bobby Callihan, Ralph Jones, Jim McConnell, Walt Sieverts and Bobby Wellington.

* * *

DICK BANKS, Bob Fraser and Tom Krinn (who has just returned after an injury early in the season) will be back—all are juniors. Bill Johnson, a 6' 2" sophomore, has been moved up from the reserves and has done an outstanding job taking the place of tall Walt Sieverts, who has missed the past few games.

Another promising sophomore is lanky Jon Parcher, 6' 3½". He may play another season on the reserves or he may be moved up as Johnson was. However, neither coach has made plans on that score for so far in the future.

Three of the Kittens who will probably move up to the varsity are Mike Hosler, Fred Garner and Bob Taylor. Hosler is expected to take over the playmaking chores which will be vacated by Bobby Wellington.

Overall indications are that Circleville should give a good account of itself in basketball for the next several years. Both Courtney and Boyd commented that prospective cagers coming up through the ranks" make CHS's basketball future look a lot brigher than it has been in many years.

Here are the standings to date:

TEAM	SCOL	ALL
Wilmington	6-1	10-3
Washington C. H.	5-1	11-3
Circleville	2-4	9-6
Hillsboro	2-4	2-9
Greenfield	1-5	6-9

No Washington Decision Made

SEATTLE (AP) — University of Washington regents conferred for hours with top administrative officials last night, then adjourned without saying anything definite about the institution's football future.

The session was called hastily as a local furore over the firing of football coach John Cherberg grew to coastwide proportions.

A legislative subcommittee now is considering whether to conduct a full-scale probe into university athletic affairs.

The investigation received support by disclosure Tuesday of a large slush fund operated by alumni and used to entertain players.

Doby, Pierce Labeled 'Keys' To 1956 Chisox Combination

By MARTY MARION

CLAYTON, Mo. (AP)—Larry Doby and Billy Pierce are the key men on my ball club, the Chicago White Sox.

We had one very bad weakness last year and that was no left-handed power hitting. I believe Doby will take care of this. We have been finishing third because we couldn't get the extra base hits at the right time. Doby should supply some long ball power.

We have a better balanced ball club with the addition of Doby, both from the viewpoint of defense as well as offense. With Doby and Minnie Minoso following one another in the lineup, one hitting from the left side and the other from the right, we should have a real one-two punch for the first time in years.

We gave up a good man in Chico Carrasquel to get Doby and I'm glad we did. I'm not worried at all about shortstop. Luis Aparicio will plug the gap there. Ted Lyons, who managed the Memphis club part of last season, says Luis is one of the greatest fielding shortstops he has ever seen. He can run and he has a rifle arm. A low batting average won't handicap him. Besides, he has hit wherever he's played.

The only thing I'm worried about is our pitching. This could and should be helped by having Pierce pitch more often. Last year we adopted a system of starting Pierce once a week and the result was that he pitched well but wasn't in as many games as we would like to have used him.

It's going to be different this year. I'm going to start him every fifth day. This way he will pitch six or eight more games in the normal quota and it could make a difference in our standing at the end of the season.

Last year, for example, we finished five games out of first place. If Pierce had won 20 instead of 15, as he might well have done with any luck at all, we might have won the pennant.

I would like just one more starting pitcher. My three best are Pierce, Dick Donovan and Jack Harshman. I'll have to find a couple of other starters from the rest of the staff, which includes Connie Johnson, Harry Byrd, Mike Fornieles, Sandy Consuegra, a fine looking rookie called Gerry Dahlke and others.

Our infield should be all right with Walt Dropo at first, Nellie Fox at second, George Kell at third and Aparicio at short. Sherm Lollar will do most of the catching again. My third outfielder will be among Jim Rivera, Bob Nieman, Cal Abrams and Bob Kennedy, with the latter ready to fill in at third whenever Kell may need a rest.

I'm not making any predictions this year but I trust we have a better club than last year.

Monroe Ends Season With 14-2 Record

Monroe warmed up for the tournament hardcourt battles, by beating Mt. Sterling, 57-39, Tuesday night on the latter's floor.

Monroe thus closed out its regular season with a 14-2 overall mark, best in the four years the squad has been coached by Bill Wolfe.

In repeating their 77-52 win, scored over Mt. Sterling earlier in the year, the Indians jumped into a 13-8 first period lead and held a comfortable 32-18 advantage at intermission.

The Pickaway County League runnerups continued to extend their lead and were out in front, 51-26 at the third period mark. In the final stanza, the Indians scored only six points to Mt. Sterling's 13 tallies to make the scoreboard read, 57-39.

* * *

MONOE'S LEADING scorer, Stan Jones, counted 21 points to take scoring honors for the night. His teammate, Dwight Miller, chipped in with 12.

Stewart led the Mount's offense with 15 points while his teammate, Phillips, was close behind with 14.

Mt. Sterling salvaged the reserve battle, 30-22.

Stallion Tops U. S. Harness Race Winners

COLUMBUS—Brook King, an 8-year-old pacing stallion owned by Glen Bice of Galesburg, Ill., was the nation's leading race-winning harness horse in 1955 with 27 victories, the U. S. Trotting Association announced today.

The Illinois sidewheeler bested three trotters for the national honor, the trio of Scott Frost, Harness Horse of The Year, Paul Jackson and Bonnie Lois Volo tying for second with 23 wins.

For owner Bice there was actually a double honor involved since Brook Queen, a Brookdale-Betty Radium full sister to Brook King, won 20 races and finished eighth on the national list. It marks the first time in history that any single owner has raced two of the top ten dash winners in the same year.

Brook King raced in the Midwest, making county fair stops in Illinois, Iowa, Wisconsin and Missouri as well as parimutuel appearances in his home state and Michigan. He made 42 starts and earned $4,410. He has a record of 2:04 taken last year. He was driven by M. L. Hogue of West Liberty, Iowa.

Scott Frost is owned by Saul Camp of Shafter, Cal.; Paul Jackon by J. M. Louiso of Fayetteville and Harley Fox of Lynchburg; and Bonnie Lois Volo by James R. Edwards of Sunbury.

Rounding out the top ten on the national list was Bunny Hanover (22), Mrs. David R. Johnston, Charlotte, N. C.; Lady Iosola Miller (21), A. E. Dorman, Albert Lea, Minn.; May Girl (21), Chauncey Robinson, Plain View, Va.; Ella Counsel (20), Day Mangus, Kirksville, Mo. and Widower Pagel (20), Pagel & Allison, Amiret, Minn.

It's Time To Start Picking All-America Cage Players

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It's that time of the year again. Balloting for the All - America basketball team is under way, the post season tournament committees are on the prowl—and both team and individual performances are hitting high gear.

The likes of West Virginia's Hot Rod Hundley, Holy Cross' Tom Heinsohn and Marquette's Terry Rand went all out Wednesday night while Xavier of Ohio up and swatted Cincinnati 79-72 in overtime.

Temple, trying to forget its one defeat, walloped Bucknell 88-50. And unbeaten St. Francis of Brooklyn, with an NIT invitation in hand but perhaps angling for a NCAA at-large berth, ran its string to 16 straight by beating Bridgeport (Conn.) 84-77.

Hundley kept the Mountaineers rolling 76-73 for their first victory at Penn State since 1949. He canned 25 points. His five quick baskets early in the second half overhauled a 46-41 Penn State lead.

Heinsohn, another All-America candidate, scored 30 points, snared 21 rebounds and got 13 assists as Holy Cross ripped Syracuse 100-85. It was the 11th straight victory for the Crusaders, who'd like to wind up in the NIT again.

Rand had himself quite a night as Marquette toppled Michigan State 90-81 in overtime. He overshadowed Julius McCoy's 31-point bag for Michigan State while scoring 24 to lead the Warriors—hitting 12 in a second half rally and 6 in the overtime.

Xavier made its biggest bid for the NIT in upsetting the 20th-ranked Bear Cats. They racked up five quick points in the first 2½ minutes of the overtime to do it.

Hal Lear and Guy Rodgers, two other All-America hopefuls, combined for 37 points as each played only about 28 minutes while Temple upped its mark to 16-1. Lear was high with 22.

St. Francis, which stands with top-ranked San Francisco as the only two major unbeatens left, got an unexpected scare at Bridgeport and had to resort to a 5-minute freeze to stay pure. Bridgeport trailed 49-30 at the half, then came alive.

Elsewhere, Duquesne, an NIT entry, defeated Carnegie Tech 69-59 although All-America candidate Villanova pulled away in the last 8 minutes to beat Penn 89-74. Seton Hall, another NIT entry, outscored Iona 26-4 in the last 5 minutes of the first half and went on to win 105-87.

Russ Meyer in the last seven National League campaigns gained a 24-3 edge over the Chicago Cubs. After tours with the Phillies and Dodgers he is back with the Cubs.

Two Postponed County League Games Scheduled For Friday

Two postponed league basketball tilts and one non-league affair will close out Pickaway County's regular cage season Friday night.

Scioto will be aiming for a third place tie when the Buffaloes host Pickaway in their postponed match.

Scioto currently boasts a 6-3 league record and a win will allow Coach Joe Corbett's cagers to share the third spot with Jackson. For the season, Scioto has the third base mark of county quintets, 12-5.

The Pirates of Pickaway, who started out the season well but slowed down considerably, will try to improve their 4-5 league and 6-9 overall records.

* * *

IN THE other postponed contest, Darby will travel to New Holland The Trojans of Darby will attempt to even up their league mark at 5-5 and boost their season's mark to 8-11.

New Holland's Bulldogs, who haven't been able to win lately, will try to improve their 3-6 league mark and 6-10 season slate.

Particular interest will be centered on the reserve scrap as the junior Bulldogs need a win to make an undisputed claim to the league's reserve title. The reservists have a perfect mark in league competition while Ashville's seconds finished with a 9-1 record.

The New Holland reserve squad has a 15-1 season mark.

In a non-league game at Jackson Coach Charlie Baxter's Wildcats will try to snap a two-game losing streak when they entertain Chillicothe Central Catholic. The tall, rugged Chillicothe quintet should provide pretty stiff competition for the Jackson cagers.

Tigers Return To Home Court To Take On Greenfield Friday

Flushed with a good non-league victory over Marion-Franklin, Circleville's Tigers return to the SCOL wars as they entertain Greenfield in the new E. Mill St. gym Friday night. This is the second last home game of the season.

The local lads will be trying to avenge an earlier defeat by Greenfield, accounting for the Highland Countians' only league victory. They were dumped by Blanchester Tuesday night and now have an overall record of 6-9; they are 1-5 in SCOL play.

Circleville's reserves, meanwhile, will be pointing to victory No. 14 without having tasted defeat yet. Coach Dick Boyd's boys have flashed past all opposition, sometimes having to come from way behind to gain the nod.

Fans who are watching the Kittens as reserves this season may well be seeing a preview of next year's varsity. Head cage coach Red Courtney will be losing virtually all of his present starting team — Bobby Callihan, Ralph Jones, Jim McConnell, Walt Sieverts and Bobby Wellington.

* * *

DICK BANKS, Bob Fraser and Tom Krinn (who has just returned after an injury early in the season) will be back—all are juniors. Bill Johnson, a 6' 2" sophomore, has been moved up from the reserves and has done an outstanding job taking the place of tall Walt Sieverts, who has missed the past few games.

Another promising sophomore is lanky Jon Parcher, 6' 3½". He may play another season on the reserves or he may be moved up as Johnson was. However, neither coach has made plans on that score for so far in the future.

Three of the Kittens who will probably move up to the varsity are Mike Hosler, Fred Garner and Bob Taylor. Hosler is expected to take over the playmaking chores which will be vacated by Bobby Wellington.

Overall indications are that Circleville should give a good account of itself in basketball for the next several years. Both Courtney and Boyd commented that prospective cagers coming up through the ranks" make CHS's basketball future look a lot brigher than it has been in many years.

Here are the standings to date:

TEAM	SCOL	ALL
Wilmington	6-1	10-3
Washington C. H.	5-1	11-3
Circleville	2-4	9-6
Hillsboro	2-4	2-9
Greenfield	1-5	6-9

Death Closes Connie Mack's Stellar Career

Baseball's Grand Old Man Dies At Age 93; Tributes Numerous

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Connie Mack, who raised baseball to a new dignity and became a cheered and cheering symbol of the nation's favorite sport, died Wednesday at the age of 93.

Thus ended the career of the tall, lean, gently humorous man who for millions of fans the world over represented the best in the game during his 50 years as manager of the Philadelphia Athletics.

Death stole upon him in mid-afternoon at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Frank Cunningham, in the Germantown section of Philadelphia. At his bedside, too, were Mrs. Mack, three other daughters and one of his three sons.

Connie Mack's health had declined steadily since he fell out of bed last Oct. 1 and suffered a hip fracture. When progress slowed he returned to the hospital to try to regain full use of his legs.

He never walked again, however. The seriousness of his condition was indicated to the public last week when his son, Roy, announced that for the first time since 1888 his father would not be able to make his usual winter trip to Florida. Roy and others in the family had to carry him to and from the car for rides in good weather.

Nevertheless, the family physician, Dr. Illarion Gopadze, said that Mack had been "doing very nicely" until Wednesday morning.

"Then he went bad," the doctor said. "He just seemed to be going out of the picture. His heart just couldn't stand up at his age."

On Friday evening the public will be admitted to the Oliver H. Bair Funeral Home in downtown Philadelphia to view the body. Solemn Requiem Mass will be sung Saturday in St. Bridget's Roman Catholic church with burial in Holy Sepulchre Cemetery here. Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick, American League president Will Harridge, National League president Warren Giles, the owners of all the major league clubs, and George Trautman, president of the minor leagues, will be honorary pallbearers.

As word of Mack's death sped across the country tributes and messages of condolence flowed into the family home and into print.

President Eisenhower was among the first to express his sentiments. He said:

"For decades Connie Mack has typified to the American people sportsmanship of the highest order. He will long be remembered by us all for the inspiration he gave American youth as a leader in the most American of sports."

In one way or another, that's what all the others said, or meant, the men in baseball's high places, the old timers such as Ty Cobb, who broke down and cried at the news, the veteran sports writers, the men Mack helped to the top, and the younger ones who knew him mostly as a tradition and as an illustrious name.

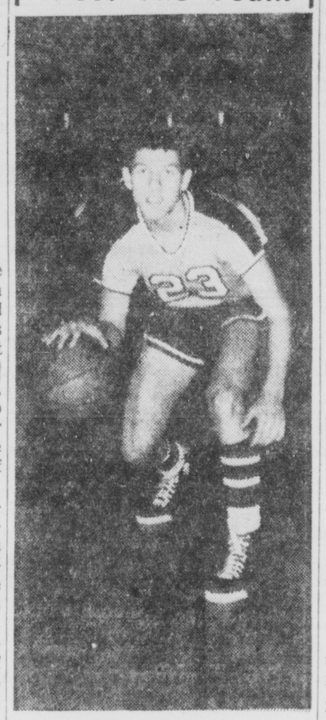

The name, to start with, was Cornelius McGillicuddy, shortened to Connie Mack in order that it might fit a baseball box score. That was in 1884 when Connie, a gangling enthusiast, first gave himself to the game.

In his 50 years as manager and part owner, Mack led the Philadelphia Athletics to nine American League championships and five World Series victories. In the exciting, exulting years he built up dream teams, then tore them apart and started all over again, because high salaries paid to star players threatened financial chaos.

Mack's managerial days ended in 1950 when he handed over the running of his beloved Athletics to his sons. And somewhat more than a year ago he most reluctantly signed the papers which delivered the A's to Kansas City. He wept for the loss.

Yet he remained "Mr. Baseball," "The grand old man of the game," to the end.

Jones Demanding Shot At Crown

WASHINGTON (AP)—Ralph (Tiger) Jones was clamoring for a shot at the middleweight title today after a knockout of Tony Baldoni.

The 27-year-old Jones had to call on all his experience and stamina to withstand the pounding given him by young Baldoni in the early stages of last night's fight.

But Jones rallied strongly in the fifth, sending Baldoni down for a nine count with a short, chopping right, and then putting him away for keeps at 2:30 of the sixth with a pair of wicked left jabs.

Big Ten Scoring Records Tumbling

CHICAGO (AP)—The Big Ten's major basketball scoring records, on number of points, game average and accuracy percentage appear doomed this season if the sharpshooters maintain their pace.

Ohio State's Robin Freeman is leading the assault on records with an average of 34.3 points in seven conference games.

His pace is far ahead of the record 27.1 average by Indiana's Don Schlundt in 14 games in 1954.

No Playoff Seen In Big Ten Race

CHICAGO (AP)—In case Iowa and Illinois wind up in a tie for the Big Ten basketball championship, the NCAA tournament representative will be chosen without a playoff.

The Big Ten has no prescribed procedure for selecting the Big Ten tourney team. The decision of how a representative shall be selected is up to the athletic directors, who are on record as opposing a playoff.

The directors would either vote for the representative or make the choice by a flip of the coin.

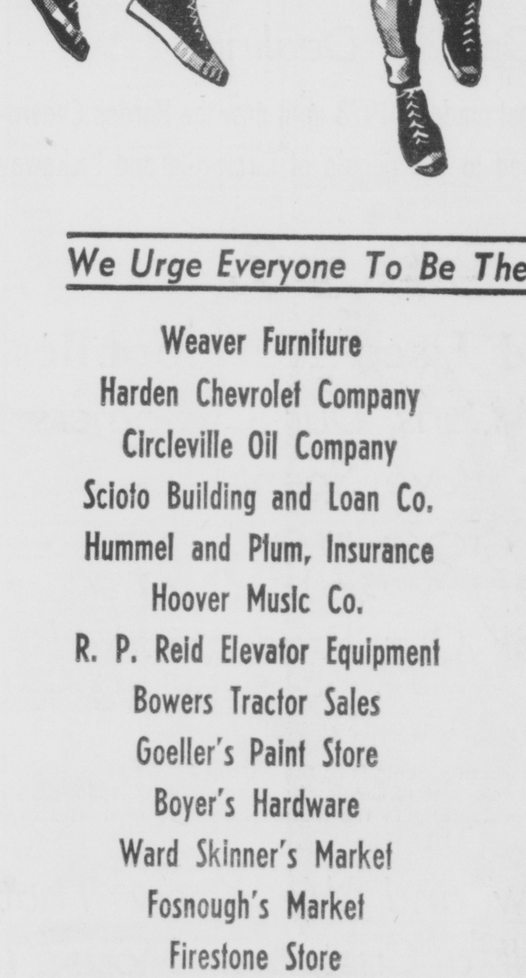

Hawks Close In On Piston Quint

NEW YORK (AP) — A couple of weeks ago the St. Louis Hawks were in last place in the National Basketball Assn.'s western division. Today the Hawks, on the strength of their nine game surge, are in second place and closing in on the fumbling Fort Wayne Pistons.

The Hawks made it nine in a row last night, tripping the Boston Celtics 111-110.

Meanwhile, the Pistons dropped their fourth game in their last five starts, 106-82 to Minneapolis.

Death Closes Connie Mack's Stellar Career

Baseball's Grand Old Man Dies At Age 93; Tributes Numerous

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Connie Mack, who raised baseball to a new dignity and became a cheered and cheering symbol of the nation's favorite sport, died Wednesday at the age of 93.

Thus ended the career of the tall, lean, gently humorous man who for millions of fans the world over represented the best in the game during his 50 years as manager of the Philadelphia Athletics.

Death stole upon him in mid-afternoon at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Frank Cunningham, in the Germantown section of Philadelphia. At his bedside, too, were Mrs. Mack, three other daughters and one of his three sons.

Connie Mack's health had declined steadily since he fell out of bed last Oct. 1 and suffered a hip fracture. When progress slowed he returned to the hospital to try to regain full use of his legs.

He never walked again, however. The seriousness of his condition was indicated to the public last week when his son, Roy, announced that for the first time since 1888 his father would not be able to make his usual winter trip to Florida. Roy and others in the family had to carry him to and from the car for rides in good weather.

Nevertheless, the family physician, Dr. Illarion Gopadze, said that Mack had been "doing very nicely" until Wednesday morning. "Then he went bad," the doctor said. "He just seemed to be going out of the picture. His heart just couldn't stand up at his age."

On Friday evening the public will be admitted to the Oliver H. Bair Funeral Home in downtown Philadelphia to view the body. Solemn Requiem Mass will be sung Saturday in St. Bridget's Roman Catholic church with burial in Holy Sepulchre Cemetery here. Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick, American League president Will Harridge, National League president Warren Giles, the owners of all the major league clubs, and George Trautman, president of the minor leagues, will be honorary pallbearers.

As word of Mack's death sped across the country tributes and messages of condolence flowed into the family home and into print.

President Eisenhower was among the first to express his sentiments. He said:

"For decades Connie Mack has typified to the American people sportsmanship of the highest order. He will long be remembered by us all for the inspiration he gave American youth as a leader in the most American of sports."

In one way or another, that's what all the others said, or meant, the men in baseball's high places, the old timers such as Ty Cobb, who broke down and cried at the news, the veteran sports writers, the men Mack helped to the top, and the younger ones who knew him mostly as a tradition and as an illustrious name.

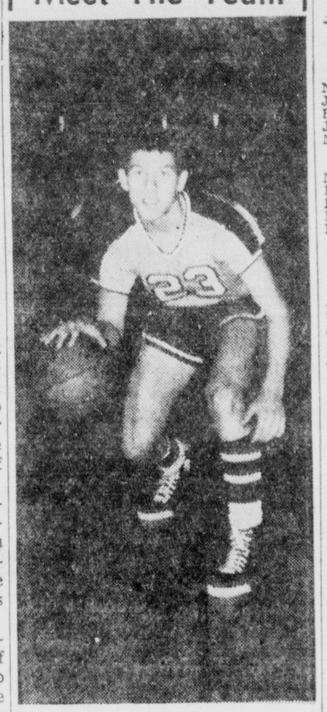

The name, to start with, was Cornelius McGillicuddy, shortened to Connie Mack in order that it might fit a baseball box score. That was in 1884 when Connie, a gangling enthusiast, first gave himself to the game.

In his 50 years as manager and part owner, Mack led the Philadelphia Athletics to nine American League championships and five World Series victories. In the exciting, exulting years he built up dream teams, then tore them apart and started all over again, because high salaries paid to star players threatened financial chaos.

Mack's managerial days ended in 1950 when he handed over the running of his beloved Athletics to his sons. And somewhat more than a year ago he most reluctantly signed the papers which delivered the A's to Kansas City. He wept for the loss.

Yet he remained "Mr. Baseball," "The grand old man of the game," to the end.

Jones Demanding Shot At Crown

WASHINGTON (AP)—Ralph (Tiger) Jones was clamoring for a shot at the middleweight title today after a knockout of Tony Baldoni.

The 27-year-old Jones had to call on all his experience and stamina to withstand the pounding given him by young Baldoni in the early stages of last night's fight.

But Jones rallied strongly in the fifth, sending Baldoni down for a nine count with a short, chopping right, and then putting him away for keeps at 2:30 of the sixth with a pair of wicked left jabs.

Big Ten Scoring Records Tumbling

CHICAGO (AP)—The Big Ten's major basketball scoring records, on number of points, game average and accuracy percentage appear doomed this season if the sharpshooters maintain their pace.

Ohio State's Robin Freeman is leading the assault on records with an average of 34.3 points in seven conference games.

His pace is far ahead of the record 27.1 average by Indiana's Don Schlundt in 14 games in 1954.

No Playoff Seen In Big Ten Race

CHICAGO (AP)—In case Iowa and Illinois wind up in a tie for the Big Ten basketball championship, the NCAA tournament representative will be chosen without a playoff.

The Big Ten has no prescribed procedure for selecting the Big Ten tourney team. The decision of how a representative shall be selected is up to the athletic directors, who are on record as opposing a playoff.

The directors would either vote for the representative or make the choice by a flip of the coin.

Hawks Close In On Piston Quint

NEW YORK (AP) — A couple of weeks ago the St. Louis Hawks were in last place in the National Basketball Assn.'s western division. Today the Hawks, on the strength of their nine game surge, are in second place and closing in on the fumbling Fort Wayne Pistons.

The Hawks made it nine in a row last night, tripping the Boston Celtics 111-110.

Meanwhile, the Pistons dropped their fourth game in their last five starts, 106-82 to Minneapolis.

An Old Axiom:
"The proof of the pudding is in the eating."
Could Read Like This:
"The proof of our quality deals is in the buying."
No business in a city the size of Circleville can sell $7,222,736.27 worth of merchandise without selling to the same customers over and over again.

You Know and We Know That To Sell a Customer More Than Once, You "HAVE TO TREAT HIM RIGHT"

And that is just what Harden Chevrolet has been doing for 28 years now. We are proud of this proof that you can still get a better deal at Harden Chevrolet.

Let Us Prove It To You Personally By Trading You Now on One Of Our New Chevrolets, or An O.K. Used Car

An Old Axiom:
"The proof of the pudding is in the eating."
Could Read Like This:
"The proof of our quality deals is in the buying."
No business in a city the size of Circleville can sell $7,222,736.27 worth of merchandise without selling to the same customers over and over again.

You Know and We Know That To Sell a Customer More Than Once, You "HAVE TO TREAT HIM RIGHT"

And that is just what Harden Chevrolet has been doing for 28 years now. We are proud of this proof that you can still get a better deal at Harden Chevrolet.

Russian Balloon Found In Japan

TOKYO (AP) — The U. S. Army has confirmed reports that a balloon found in northern Japan last weekend is Russian-made and is being studied by Japanese and American intelligence experts.

The balloon, found as Russia and Red China were accusing the United States of launching balloons into their territory, bore Russian markings, including a label which was translated: "Instrument to measure air current."

A spokesman said the gasbag, measuring about 5 x 3½ feet, carried meterological equipment. The Army believes no photographic devices were included.

Russian Balloon Found In Japan

TOKYO (AP) — The U. S. Army has confirmed reports that a balloon found in northern Japan last weekend is Russian-made and is being studied by Japanese and American intelligence experts.

The balloon, found as Russia and Red China were accusing the United States of launching balloons into their territory, bore Russian markings, including a label which was translated: "Instrument to measure air current."

A spokesman said the gasbag, measuring about 5 x 3½ feet, carried meterological equipment. The Army believes no photographic devices were included.

Pupils With Good High School Grades Successful In College

Hartman States CHS Students Above Average

2 KSU Professors Disclose Findings Of Survey Taken

Circleville High School graduates, who maintained good grades while pursuing an academic course, are successful in their college endeavors, said George W. Hartman, city school superintendent today.

Declared Hartman, "Our graduates who prepare for college by following the academic course in high school succeed 100 percent in college if they made a 'C' average or better in high school."

His statement was made in reference to a Kent State University bulletin which was just released. This bulletin contains the findings of two KSU professors who made a study of students' high school grades and their later college showings.

The two educators, Dr. Dwight L. Arnold, director of guidance testing, and Dr. Martin R. Baron, associate professor of psychology, stressed the fact that "the higher the high school marks, the longer the student remains in college."

* * *

ACCORDING TO their study, a student averaging "C" minus or less in high school has only two chances in five of passing in college. Their findings also show that the average student's grades drop when he goes to Kent State, so that a student with a "B" plus high school average will make a B minus at KSU, etc.

The KSU report did not make a distinction between students who pursued an academic course and one who took what is generally considered easier, the general course. Hartman did make this distinction in pointing out the success of Circleville graduates.

The Kent State professors did state that some students who do less than average work in high school do reasonably well in college. They add that this is possibly due to individual initiative, etc.

In commenting upon the KSU release, Hartman pointed out that Circleville has "many graduates in college now who more than meet the competition from other schools. They," he pointed out, "are among the college leaders."

In explaining the achievements of Circleville graduates, Hartman asserted "Circleville High School cannot be rated as an easy school. Its real scholastic achievement ranks much above the average high school."

* * *

IN REVERTING back to a statement he made about two months ago concerning a trend which was decried by educators at the White House Conference on Education last December, Hartman said:

"The national tendency of many school children is to bring pressure to bear against homework and to get by with as little effort at school as possible."

The Circleville superintendent went on to say, "In Circleville High School, we have a very healthy attitude towards making some real accomplishment in school. One out of every six pupils enrolled makes the honor roll. We had 97 the last six-weeks on the honor roll out of 581 students. These students carried a grade average of 3.2 or better."

In explaining why Circleville students are successful in their studies, Hartman declared "we have a semester of guidance required five periods each week of all freshmen. They are told how to study effectively. The student is not only taught the importance of making good grades in high school, but also the subjects in high school to pursue to prepare for some desired career."

Guidance was stressed as very important by the KSU researchers. They pointed out that should a prospective college student not be qualified he should seek other occupations which will be suited to his abilities and limitations.

And Now The Kids Are Sending Mom Through College

CLEVELAND (AP)—Turnabout is fair play, the children of Mrs. Eunice Liggens believe, and so they are sending their mother to college.

Mrs. Liggens, a grandmother, is attending the John Carroll University night division for a degree in education. She enrolled at Mebarry Medical College at Nashville, Tenn., in the early 20s. But she had to drop out because of finances.

She helped her daughter, Mrs. Wanda Jean Green, through Storer College and the University of Toledo. A son, Larnell, also graduated from Toledo on the family work-study plan.

Now these children have teamed up to provide tuition for Mrs. Liggens. She has two other children, Melroy, a Toledo student, and Conway, in the Army.

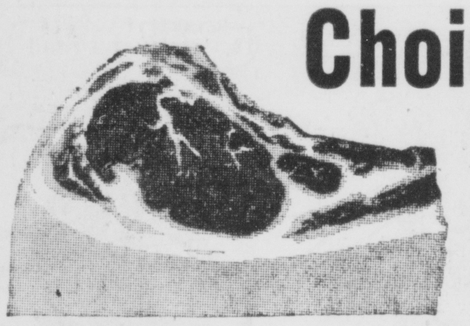

Luck Runs Out

SHAMOKIN, Pa. (AP)—Peter Wydra, 34, cheated death in a cave-in at a coal mine near here two years ago, but yesterday his luck ran out. Another fall of rock killed him and Peter Karwarchi, 48, in the same 150-foot-deep pit.

At 68, William Henry Harrison was the oldest U. S. President.
